CITY'S SEWER BOND SALE CANCELLED

Irregularities Are Cause of Action; Bids to Be Called for Again

The sale of the first unit of $2,000 in Glendale's municipal sewer bonds, authorized at election of January 8, 1924, the Anglo-London-Paris associated companies on April 3, was cancelled by the unanimous vote of the City Council this morning, when, after several weeks of investigation, it was shown that the moving opinion of O'Malley, Milliken, Tuller & Macneil could not be furnished the chasers until a period estimated from thirty to sixty days had elapsed.

In compliance with their request, the $10,000 check deposited at the time of the sale, was returned to the company and the proceedings declared null and void.

Presents Resolution

The cancellation was authorized by the following resolution, presented by Councilman C. E. Tuller and seconded by Councilman Sam Davis, and adopted with a dissenting vote:

Resolved, by the Council of the City of Glendale: Whereas, we have been advised by the firm of O'Malley, Tuller & Macneil, whose moving opinion the city of Glendale agreed to furnish the chasers of the $652,000 1924 sewer bonds of the city of Glendale offered for sale April 3, 1924, and by the city attorney, that they will, in their opinion, require a further necessary delay of at least forty-five days before the necessary opinion on the validity of said bonds can be given; and

Whereas, four weeks' time has already elapsed since the acceptance of the bid of the successful bidder; and

Whereas, the purchasers of said bonds under date of April 3, 1924, have requested the cancellation of the award of the bid; and

Whereas, it appears to this council that said bonds cannot be delivered within a reasonable time; and

Whereas, the advisory committee, consisting of representatives of the banks of the city of Glendale, have so advised; now, therefore,

Resolved, by the council of the City of Glendale:

That the city of Glendale hereby consents to the cancellation of the purchase of said $652,000

PLANS TO WIDEN BROADWAY URGED

City Officials Will Report On Projects at Next Week's Meeting

With the recommendation of the City Planning commission before them stating that West Broadway should be widened from Central avenue to San Fernando road, and proceedings already started for widening from Central to Pacific avenues, the council this morning referred the matter to V. B. Stone, city manager, and Ben S. Dupuy, city engineer, for investigation and report next Thursday.

It is the wish of the Council, according to statements made this morning, to carry on the widening under one proceeding, but they do not intend to abandon the widening of Broadway from Central to Pacific until some definite assurance is given that the project can be carried. Final action will probably be taken next Thursday.

City Lowest Bidder

The city was the lowest bidder for the installation of the lighting systems on Broadway and Glendale avenue. The former contract will run around $32,000 and the latter $86,000. The bid submitted by the municipality was appreciably lower than that of outside firms. Bids were referred to Peter Diederich, superintendent of plant and production, for checking and report.

Routine business occupied the attention of the Council for the entire session, which lasted one and one-half hours.

May Day Rather Quietly Observed Throughout World

Dispatches to The Glendale Evening News today showed:

May day, the recognized day for Socialist demonstrations, passed over comparatively quiet everywhere. A bomb explosion took place in Paris during a meeting of the Paris branch of the Italian Fascist, and a woman was injured.

A few workers in Paris observed the day with a temporary strike.

Mounted police in Berlin also quelled a Communist demonstration.

In Madrid police precautions were taken to prevent agitators from starting strikes.

Special precautions were taken in New York for guards about banks, churches and homes of well-known rich men.

May day in London passed off quietly as a holiday.

PASTOR GOES TO PRISON TO REST

Jailed as Speeder, Refuses To Join Chain Gang At Daily Tasks

AUBURN, Cal., May 1.—"I'm just naturally tired and worn out and, besides, I came for a rest."

This was the answer given today by the Rev. C. R. Fairfield, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Roseville, who is serving a five-day sentence for speeding, when asked to go to work on the prison "chain gang."

"Fairfield really is worn out," Sheriff Elmer Gum said today. "He says he's only 38 years old but he looks 55. I'm going to feed him well and give him lots of sleep and food in jail. He'll be a different man when he gets out of jail."

The sheriff said the minister would not be punished for refusing to scrub floors and hoe weeds with other jail inmates.

Offers Forty Horses To State; Feed Is Low

SACRAMENTO, May 1.—Declaring that the animals are on "short rations" and that he is unable to secure more feed for them, due to foot-and-mouth disease regulations, C. H. Laiblin, manager of the state highway commission, today offered to "rent, sell or give" the state highway commission forty work horses which are isolated near Tracy.

In his plea to the highway board to put the horses to work on state roads, Laiblin said that he offered to give the animals to the county, but that "as yet no one wants to assume the responsibility."

"The humane society will send us to jail if the horses are allowed to go hungry," he sets forth, "and if we attempt to move them to better feed we are in violation of foot-and-mouth regulations."

Finds Labor Cheap In Africa; Gasoline High

SACRAMENTO, May 1.—Negroes can be hired for less than $5 per month, black girls can be had at 25 cents each, and cattle in prime condition can be purchased for $4 each in Portuguese East Africa, according to a letter just received from C. H. Chase, an Oroville youth, who is employed in that territory by a gold dredging concern. In company with two other young Americans, Chase left for Macequene, Portuguese East Africa, some three years ago under contract.

American-made automobiles are to be found in large numbers, and gasoline, which is imported from the United States, sells for 50 cents per gallon.

Invoices Must Show Gasoline Taxes Paid

SACRAMENTO, May 1.—California oil and gasoline dealers and refineries were notified today by State Controller Ray L. Riley that all invoices submitted to his office for gasoline tax refunds must show that the tax has actually been paid or the refund will be refused.

INDUSTRIAL PEACE ON MAY DAY

Secretary of Labor Finds American Workmen Are Happy, Contented

By JAMES J. DAVIS
Secretary of Labor
For International News Service.
Copyright, 1924

WASHINGTON, May 1.—For some time past it has been apparent that the industrial horizon of the world is slowly brightening, but our own people today are proud to be able to acclaim that America is "Queen of the May."

In practically all lines of industry in the United States "May day" dawned upon peaceful industrial relations existing between employer and employee.

Workmen Contented

The American workman has cause to be happy and contented. Building tradesmen in all our principal cities are steadily employed at good wages. Petty grievances are being ironed out and in many instances wage agreements have been signed for periods longer than a year. These periods are working out satisfactorily contracts and a great building program is going forward throughout the country.

Coal production promises to improve from month to month. A three-year wage agreement recently signed eliminates the possibility of any serious strikes in the bituminous fields for that period and the anthracite agreement assures peace in that branch of the industry for nearly two years.

Industry Settled

Practically all of the railway differences have been settled and today there is only an occasional road on which the shop craft strike of 1922 has not been terminated.

Here and there may be found slight industrial differences between employees and employers, but none of these is more than local significance.

As secretary of labor it is a great satisfaction to me to be able to say to the hundred and ten millions that I serve that so far as industrial relationship is concerned the country was never in better shape.

Arrange Disputes

During the month of March the conciliation service of this department promptly and without public notice was successful in settling forty-five trade disputes arising in fifteen different states and involving over 40,000 workers. It is a testimonial of the level-headedness of both men and management in the industry. Reports coming to me from many sources from all parts of the country indicate no serious industrial controversies in existence, nor threatened, and so May day, 1924, promises to be as quiet and peaceful industrially as any other day in any other month of the year.

MATCH WILLS TO BATTLE DEMPSEY

Willard Dates Black Panther For Title Bout With Champ, Sept. 6th

NEW YORK, May 1.—Tex Rickard announced today that he had signed Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills to meet in a bout for the world's heavyweight championship on September 6.

The announcement was made following a conference between Rickard and Paddy Mullins, manager of Wills, this afternoon.

Rickard's announcement came as a surprise to boxing followers here, who were awaiting a report that Wills and Luis Firpo had been matched as an elimination contest for the heavyweight championship title. The announcement was taken to mean that all restrictions on heavyweight contests in this locality had been lifted.

It is admitted by Rickard that Wills must indulge in several bouts before he can figure to qualify for a bout with Dempsey. He must meet the survivor of the fight between Floyd Johnson and Quentin Romero-Rojas in the first place. It is also possible Wills will be asked to meet the winner of a bout in which Jack Renault, Canadian, will be asked to take part in the near future.

NUMEROUS PARADES

LONDON, May 1.—England celebrated May day today in quiet and orderly fashion. There were numerous parades.

DEATH, RUIN, MARK PATH OF STORM

One Hundred Dead, 500 Are Hurt In 1000-Mile Trail Of South's Tornado

By B. V. STURDEVANT
For International News Service.
ATLANTA, Ga., May 1.—

A path of death and destruction, littered with 100 lifeless forms and more than 500 injured, and damaged property conservatively estimated at $10,000,000, today stretched for 1000 miles across the Southland, representing one of the most disastrous storms in the history of the southern states.

Many of the injured are at the point of death, while more than a dozen are reported as missing in the six states which were swept by the cyclonic disturbances. Indications were that the casualty list will be swelled considerably before daylight.

The cyclone which was first reported at Texarkana Tuesday night, became more severe as it traveled eastward and claimed its heaviest toll near the end of its destructive journey in South Carolina, where reports have it that 69 persons were killed. The storm touched a section near Durham, N. C., where three lost their lives.

Georgia and Alabama suffered most severely, 13 being killed in Georgia, while twelve Alabamians lost their lives. One person was killed in Arkansas, one in Louisiana and still another in Oklahoma.

Telegraphic lines were restored today and additional accounts of the storm's ravages were received. It was believed at Southern headquarters of the Red Cross in Atlanta that a complete casualty list will not be available for several days.

Red Cross emergency workers have been rushed to those points where suffering was said to be the worst.

All Pull Together!

In addition to the baseball game, the like of which there has not been in many years, will be an added feature will be a tug of war staged by teams representing the Glendale Realty board and the Rotary clubs. Presidents of the two organizations are looking over the membership lists today and picking out the heaviest members, intent upon winning the event.

Persons who attend the game will have an opportunity to see Jess Willard and Jim Jeffries, former heavyweight champions of the world, in new roles, for these nobles of the roped ring have agreed to attend and will officiate as umpires. An effort is being made to induce Jack Dempsey, present champion, to attend, in order that a reunion of three of America's greatest boxers might be held.

START SLAUGHTER PLOT TO FIX UP OF FAMOUS HERD PERMIT CHARGED

Pure-Bred Holstein Cattle, Valued at $500,000, Found Infected

LANKERSHIM, Cal., May 1.—Slaughter of the famous $500,000 herd of pure bred Holstein cattle owned by Fred Hartsok was started here this morning when excavation of a huge grave for the 300 animals was completed. The death of the prize herd, well known among breeders of every country, was ordered when it was found to be contaminated with the hoof and mouth disease.

The animals were driven into a deep trench excavated with a steam shovel and shot with rifles as they milled around in a mad effort to escape the death trap.

Loss of the famous herd was said by stock raisers to be the biggest blow the hoof and mouth disease has ever dealt to the United States, and to be more of a calamity than the destruction of all other cattle killed in California during the fight against the malady.

Included in this breeding herd are such world-famous animals as Tillie Alcarra, former world's record milk producer.

DISAPPEARS AS GALE IS RAGING ON ROUTE

Number of Craft In Hunt For Lost Aviator In Alaskan Waters

CORDOVA, Alaska, May 1.—A far flung search was started in Alaskan waters today for Major Frederick L. Martin and his round the world flag plane Seattle.

The commander of the American army flyers has not been heard from since he hopped off from Chignik at 11:10 a. m. (Alaskan time), Wednesday, in an effort to reach Dutch Harbor, where his three flying companions have been awaiting his arrival for two weeks.

Gales Along Route

Major Martin took off under most unfavorable circumstances and the weather conditions today were unimproved. Gales with heavy snowfall were reported along his route to Dutch Harbor.

News that he was missing was broadcasted by radio and the coast guard cutter Haida at Dutch Harbor ordered to proceed along the route taken by the flyer in an effort to locate him.

The Alaskan wirelessless a request to Chignik that all canny boats search the numerous bays as far as Shumagin islands.

Meager Communication

The canny station at King Cove reported today that the Seattle had not been sighted passing there and that weather conditions were very unfavorable for flying.

OBSERVE SCIOTS' NIGHT AT TEMPLE

Glendale Lodge Entertains
In Honor of Pyramid;
Program Pleases

The "pyramid builders" of Toparch H. M. Bennett, over 300 strong, were the guests last night of Glendale lodge No. 544, F. and A. M., at the local Masonic temple, 232 South Brand boulevard, when "Sciots' Night" was combined with ritualistic work and followed by a banquet where 400 Sciots and Masons partook of the hospitality of Glendale's junior lodge.

The candidate for third degree honors was Leland Mock. William Moody, "the Sciots' master," had charge of the work and the team that conferred the degree was comprised entirely of Sciots. As Toparch Bennett said, in his address at the banquet: "The square and compass stand for more than brothers in name. We have tonight demonstrated beyond a doubt that Sciots have not detracted from our interest in Blue Lodge work."

Addresses Given
Lodge No. 544, headed by Master Charles J. Wolfe, proved excellent hosts. The refreshments, which were in charge of Lieutenant W. J. Royle, assisted by Scientist Paul Maxwell, proved most excellent and the addresses that followed were inspiring tributes to Masonry.

Among those who addressed the assemblage were: Toparch Bennett, William Moody, Norman G. Davidson, R. E. Johnston, K. A. Lewis, Colonel Dewey and the newly made master Mason, Leland Mock.

At long to be remembered, the gathering joined in the song, "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

COLLEGE WOMEN LAY FOUNDATION OF SCHOLARSHIP

Fund to Help Young Women
To Secure Education
Started by Club

By KATHERINE V. SINKS
Of The Evening News Staff.

In heartily participating in a bridge and Mah Jongg party yesterday afternoon at the attractive E. B. Sutton home, "Twin Pines," at 727 East Windsor road, members and friends of the Glendale College Women's club established a club scholarship fund that will grow in the future into a substantial foundation to assist worthy young women to secure college educations.

With ideal spring weather prevailing, the day was perfect for an enjoyable social affair, and nearly 150 women took part in the bridge and Mah Jongg games, or had the pleasure of a social afternoon in the garden. Well on to $150 was realized by the sale of tickets and contributions, and when all bills have been paid and the balance added to the money already in the bank to the club's scholarship fund, the account will total approximately $150.

It is hoped that this money can be put into use next year in assisting in a small way some college girl. As the years go by the fund will be increased until it will be able for the club to finance the higher education of some girl. Credit for the success of yesterday's affair is shared by officers and directors of the club and members of the special committee. Mrs. Sutton very graciously offered the use of her home, and carried out elaborate plans for entertaining the club company.

Summon Police to Compel Bee Swarm To Vacate Porch

Held prisoner by bees!
A frantic call to the police for assistance from Mrs. H. W. Hollenbeck, 1129 Western avenue, yesterday noon, sent Lieut. W. J. Royle hurrying to the scene, and upon his arrival, he found the entire house surrounded by a swarm of bees.

The trouble started when the queen bee from a neighboring apiary decided to travel, and made for Mrs. Hollenbeck's house. Followed by the entire colony, she flew around the Hollenbeck house and Mrs. Hollenbeck was unable to get out doors.

Shortly after the arrival of Lieut. Royle, the queen decided to land on a neighboring tree, and very shortly all was serene at the house in question, and Mrs. Hollenbeck was able to go on her shopping trip, as the bees had all followed their queen onto the tree.

Claims Lease Traded, Want to Quiet Title

LOS ANGELES, May 1.—A long tale of financing and alleged sale and resale of a valuable Long Beach business lease is unfolded in an action to quiet title, filed in the nature of a cross-complaint in the Golden State bank of Long Beach, Dan McDavid and others, by Walter Horne company and I. R. Barker. The fifty-year lease was put up as security on a $7500 note. Later the lease was transferred by sale, it is claimed, and since then is said to have passed through several hands. The action now pending is for the purpose of untangling the title and finding the true owner.

NEED FOR PARKS, PLAYGROUNDS IN CITY EMPHASIZED

Appointment of Committee
To Make Survey Is Asked
In Resolution

A resolution addressed to the Glendale City Council, adopted unanimously at a meeting held in the council chamber of the City Hall yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, asks that body to appoint a committee of six members to make a comprehensive survey of the park and playground situation in this city and report back at an early date, with recommendations as to the necessary steps to be taken and plans to be followed to insure Glendale adequate recreational facilities in the years to come. The committee will consist of one member from each of the following organizations: High school board of trustees; City board of education; Planning commission; Park commission; Chamber of Commerce and the City Council.

The adoption of this resolution was directly the result of an address by George Braden, divisional representative of the National Recreation association. His headquarters are in Pasadena and he has supervision over the eleven western states. "It is perfectly fitting and proper," said Mr. Braden, who has made a study of municipal recreational advantages, "that a city should be informed of its advantages, and should disseminate this information to the world at large. But no city can afford to drift along today without making progress."

Graham Crackers

By F. A. GRAHAM

Just one more crack about the recent pirateering in official circles—a lot more people are now in favor of capital punishment.

"Woman, 70, Cuts Timber and Rides Horseback," the witching headline announced. "This is unusual when you consider that most of them nowadays are inclined to cut hair and go bare-back."

Some people claim that flappers are dumbbells, but one look at their countenances will convince the most skeptical that they are well read.

Guaranteed to get any good looking stenographer a position—when the prospective boss asks you why you left your last place, tell him you were caught kissing the boss.

On second thought, a good looking stenographer will never have to resort to any tricks to get a position.

"Capitalist Named in Suit for Heart Balm." It is entirely superfluous to state that the man in the case is a capitalist.

That Paris man who is being sued for selling another man's valuable race horses to a butcher may have to face more serious charges. There is a report that a customer was in a restaurant eating some of the horse meat and some one yelled "whoa!" and the meat stopped in his throat and he struggled to death before anybody thought of saying giddap.

Just for that, there will be no more horns on Fords. They look too much like the devil now. Giddap!

MUSIC TEACHERS HEAR COMPOSER

Vernon Spencer Displays
All Modern Phases of Piano Playing

Mrs. Lillian Smiths of 231 West Milford street was last night hostess to the members of the music teachers' round table of the Glendale Music club for their regular April meeting. Vernon Spencer of Los Angeles gave a talk on "Modern Phases of Pianoforte Playing."

The lecture was especially interesting, inasmuch as he demonstrated his methods with a group of his own pupils, girls of 13 and 14 years. Heavy arm technique was demonstrated by Dorothy Woodbury, who played "The Warrior's Song," by MacDowell, illustrating finger technique, and "If I Were a Bird," by Henselt, illustrating wrist staccato, played by Ella Ulrich.

Teacher and Composer
Mr. Spencer is widely known as a teacher and composer and concert musician. It was through the efforts of Mrs. Eva Cunningham, chairman of the round table, that Mr. Spencer was secured. Mrs. Cunningham has studied with Mr. Spencer for a number of years.

The rest of the evening was devoted to an informal social hour, when refreshments were served.

OLD TIME BUSS STILL RUNS ON CITY'S STREETS

Present Age of Vehicle Is Unknown But It's Still Called an Auto

"Hey, get a horse!"
"Oh, you Spark Plug!"
"How old is Ann?"

Greeted by a chorus of juvenile and adult pleasantries similar to the above, R. C. Talbott of 453 West Harvard street may be seen rolling down Brand boulevard almost any day, in his Model "P" Sears "gasoline buggy" engine No. 4079, serial No. 12631. Now how old is Ann? Does anybody know?

Business with Him
You can't kid Mr. Talbott about his ancient auto. The more you try to, the happier he gets—for it is a business proposition with this enterprising young man. The more the kidding, the more the attention of the public is directed to the numerous placards adorning the antique vehicle, said placards calling attention to the wares of local merchants.

And now R. C. Talbott and his auto that refuses to wear out are planning a tour of the state. Business again, of course, strictly business. He is understood to be negotiating with one or two big Los Angeles concerns, to advertise their product from San Diego to Siskiyou.

Inasmuch as the old Sears makes no more than twelve miles an hour, the trip will not be accomplished in record time. "Four wheels and no brakes," one placard says. ("What will you do when you come to a hill, Mr. Talbott?") And another placard proudly proclaims, "Still using the original tires." These are the old fashioned hard-rubber buggy tires of a generation back.

Can't Buy Repairs
The owner of this singular relic acquired it eight years ago from a retired Los Angeles police lieutenant. The vehicle is a double chain, friction drive, two-cylinder affair, the cylinders opposed. It uses gasoline for fuel and oil for lubrication, but there the resemblance to modern cars stops. When it breaks down, Mr. Talbott must repair it himself. This he is well able to do, as he has been in the automobile business for many years and is also an expert electrician.

He is well known in local motor car circles. Way back in 1911 he sold autos in Pasadena and later opened up a used car business in Los Angeles. In selling used cars in Glendale, he has found his old Sears to be a distinct advantage. When a prospective purchaser would doubt the staying powers of a machine perhaps three or four years old, Mr. Talbott would point to the ancient vehicle and ask:

Used Cars Are Good
In fact, R. C. Talbott is very partial to used cars and deplores the attitude of a certain portion of the buying public, which would relegate to the scrap-heap every car over three years old. "The average used car is to all practical purposes as good as a new one," he says. "Minus the lines of the newer models, it is every bit as good. Any modern car is capable of doing 100,000 miles with comparatively few repairs. Look at this old Sears!"

Missionary Convention Praises Hospitality Of Glendale In Resolution

In closing their missionary convention yesterday at the First Congregational church, Congregational church women representing churches south of Bakersfield and many Arizona churches, voiced in resolutions pleasure at meeting in Glendale and appreciation for their cordial entertainment; hearty support of President Coolidge; loyalty to the constitution; and the slogan "Let Us Wage Peace."

The resolutions as presented read:
"The resolution committee, in behalf of all attending this annual joint meeting of the union and branch, wishes to express its sincere appreciation to the women of Glendale for their cordial welcome, hospitable entertainment, gracious courtesies and attention; Spiritual Uplift

"To the women of the Congregational and Presbyterian churches and to the Tuesday afternoon club, for the delicious meals, so bountifully provided and attractively served;
"To the officers and directors of our boards for their faithful service and constructive work during the year; also to those who planned, and to all who participated in the progress, which has been a spiritual feast, a great outlook and a great uplift. It has given us an enlarged world vision of hope, while squarely facing difficulties, a new sense of the importance and dignity of our task.

Ira C. Collier's Car Figures In Accident

Following an investigation of an automobile accident in which Ira C. Collier, of 318 East California avenue, a nephew of Superior Judge Collier, was involved, deputy sheriffs yesterday released Mr. Collier after he had explained the accident. Mr. Collier's car struck and injured D. D. Brown, 72, an injured knee. The hand brake failed to stop the car in time to avoid hitting Mr. Brown, he told officers.

Closing of Griffith Park Rouses Actors

UNIVERSITY HEAD URGES SOLUTION OF JAP PROBLEM

Oxy President Would Apply
Christian Principles to Guide People

The application of Christian principles to international relations, particularly with regard to the Japanese problem, was urged yesterday afternoon by President Dr. Remsen du Bois Bird of Occidental college, in a strong address before the concluding session of the joint meetings, Woman's Home Missionary Union of Southern California and Woman's Board of Missions for the Pacific, Southern Branch, held at the Congregational church, Mrs. George Herbert Clark presiding.

After tracing briefly the history of Christianity from its inception to the present time, Dr. Bird set forth three fundamental principles for the guidance of Christian peoples in their international relations:

First—The eternal worth of every human soul.
Second—A concept of the entity of justice.
Third—The limitless love of God.
Dr. Bird then traced the work of the recently organized Institute of Social and Religious Research, formed in New York for the purpose of making an exhaustive Oriental survey. Of the five committees organized on the Pacific coast under the jurisdiction of this institute, he stated, one functions in Los Angeles at the present time.

Mixed Committee
The make-up of this committee is polyglot, Dr. Bird told his audience, being composed of members representing all shades of anti and pro-Japanese persuasion. The result is a body capable of getting at the facts in the case, which is what the institute wants. The Institute of Social and Religious Research wants to know, for instance, how many Japanese there are in California and in the United States, what is the problem of the younger generation of Japs, how the Orientals harmonize with the American ideal of public schools, anti and pro organizations disseminating propaganda.

RECALL THE OLD-FASHIONED SCRAP BOOK

Why not revive that old-fashioned scrap-book idea? What a wealth of material it contained—clippings, poems, quotations from favorite authors, reports of parties, marriages, births, wonderful trips, clever sayings and hundreds of other interesting and worthwhile items that appear from time to time in your daily paper.

Particularly right now, when there are so many fine things to be found in The Glendale Evening News, would be a good time to start such a scrap-book. A collection of Frank Crane's talks, for instance, or Dr. Lulu Hunt Peters' "Diet and Health" series, or Harvey E. Westgate's poems, or—why, just look the paper over and see how many things there are you would really like to save.

There isn't a place in the world, or any contrivance of man, that provides a more advantageous way to keep things than a scrap-book. Filing systems are too bulky, boxes filled with clippings are an abomination, desk drawers piled high with this and that culled from here and there are a producer of insanity. There is only one sensible way, and that is the scrap-book way.

What a good, wholesome joy it used to be to open up the old scrap-book—especially if well indexed—and find in one minute that clipping of ten years ago. There is an argument, or you are writing a letter or an article, or some thought flashes through your mind that needs corroboration—and, presto!—you have the clipping.

Think it over, then visit your stationer, get a nice big scrap-book and start culling some of the many good things appearing from day to day in The Glendale Evening News.

DISCOURAGEMENT

Nothing so knocks the props out from under morale as discouragement. It turns the world black and makes the rose look like the toadstool. It is a leaden weight on the feet of energy. It breaks the wings of trust, joy and hope. It kicks over the bucket of the milk of human kindness, makes bilious the spirit, jaundiced the ambition and in short, sours the whole disposition.

If discouragement had taken root in the make-up of Columbus, there would have been no discovery of America. If Lincoln had harkened to the pessimistic council of certain advisers, there would today be no Union. When the Israelites were discouraged, with the Red sea between them and the Promised Land, and the pursuing Egyptians close upon them, instead of giving way to discouragement they called upon Jehovah—and the God of the nations parted the waters.

Looking back, how puny seem the obstacles that were mountain high at the time of trial and tribulation. The world is a testing-place in courage, an experiment station in moral stamina, where the strong soul refuses to yield to the insidious drug of discouragement.

Asked once why he valued discouragement above all his other stock in trade, Satan is said to have replied: "Because it gives me entrance into places where I could get with no other instrument."

RIGID EXAMINATION NEEDED

It is useless to talk of bettering traffic conditions until some measure of discrimination is shown in issuing drivers' licenses. At present the halt, the maimed, the half-blind, the senile and the deaf mingle with dopes, epileptics, adolescents, neurotics and lunatics, in a wild orgy of reckless driving that leaves our boulevards a shambles.

Our children are menaced, adult pedestrians are constantly in fear of their lives, fellow motorists never know when they start out whether they will meet again in this world, property is wantonly destroyed and the people are taxed for maintaining great armies of traffic officers, "speed cops," courts and jails—while murderous incompetents and criminals flash through our cities and towns brandishing deadly four, six, eight and twelve cylinder weapons.

Fortunately, a ray of light has pierced the Stygian dark. From Sacramento comes word that Will H. Marsh, chief of the division of motor vehicles, will recommend to the next session of the legislature an amendment to the motor vehicle act, providing a rigid examination for all applicants for licenses. The proposed amendment would include not only thorough tests of the ability to drive a motor car, but also a comprehensive physical and mental examination. Hail the day that such a law is in operation in the state of California!

THIS IS NO PLAYTHING

Quite recently a new air-gun was placed on the market that will send a bullet through two inches of pine at a distance of thirty yards. As the weapon is noiseless, it offers many possibilities. Whereas the old air-guns would do no more than break windows, or put out the eye of the boy who happened to be in range of the small chunk of lead it hurled, this one will lay low your neighbor's cat when he starts broadcasting at 3 o'clock in the morning, or even furnish work for the undertaker if aimed at a youngster across the street. As a weapon in the hands of one accustomed to fire-arms it should prove of value. As a plaything for boys it might have a tendency to reduce the population and bring sorrow into many homes.

A modern apartment house, just completed, advertises an ice-skating rink as an attraction. With a swimming pool in the basement, a tennis court on the roof, a dance hall on the third floor and a talking machine and radio set in each apartment, there should be few dull—or quiet—moments. After reading of this new place we have raised the price a thousand dollars on our Glendale bungalow.

A trusting woman in Chicago discovered that her mail order husband had in less than a week stolen her money and most of her clothes, and sought new mail order fields to conquer. You can't always believe what you see in the catalogue.

China and Holland are said to be backward because of the wearing of wooden shoes. The countries wearing American shoes are active and speedy, in spite of their corns.

This temporary setback to California's live stock, while serious, will not hold back California. The state is made up of people having both courage and resources.

A MAN IN THE MAKING

The Army As Educator

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Some time ago I wrote an article indicating that the eventual use of the army in the United States would be as an educational institution.

I advocated the advantage of having every boy and girl in the United States serve at least one year in Uncle Sam's uniform.

My thought was that the real value of the army, in civilization, the real kernel of good contained in the army idea, is discipline.

I have received a letter from a lady who seems to be much heated over this question. She wants to know whether I have gone over to "the interests," whether I have thought the matter through and whether I do not realize that I am lending my influence to the propaganda for militarizing the United States, and so on. She further alleges that the real purpose of the Citizens' Military Training Camps is to inculcate war ideas and notions of military glory into the minds of boys. She alleges that this movement is headed straight for the hated European military system.

It seems to me that this lady is unduly exercised and somewhat confused.

She, and many others, do not realize that the army in the United States is not and never can be the kind of thing that armies are in other countries. That is, it cannot be an institution and cannot develop into a caste.

The real army of the United States must always be composed of its entire citizenry.

We are going to get rid of "militarism" not by abolishing the army but by expanding the army to include everybody.

It is only then that we will imbue the army with constructive ideals. It is only then that we shall consider the army as we should consider it; the training place for citizens.

The lady asks, if military training is so good for boys, why not apply it to girls?

I see no reason why not. I am entirely in favor of military training for girls quite as much as for boys.

By a recent constitutional amendment we recognized the citizenship of women. As citizens they should be taught their responsibilities and their duties to the nation. As citizens they need discipline, civic ideals and a sense of duty, quite as much as do the men.

The trouble with the nations of the old world is that soldiering has been a profession and the army has been an exclusive class.

Out of this condition of things has come the septic idea that patriotism means, somehow, only fighting and killing. When we get an army that shall be co-terminous with our citizenry, when every man and woman realizes that every citizen's supreme duty is to the nation and to humanity, and not to self, then we are going to begin to see that patriotism is something that is not called for only in time of war but is useful every day in time of peace. We shall then perceive that all business should be as patriotic as fighting.

PAYING THE PREACHER

(From San Francisco Journal)

There is a true story of a minister who was recently offered a college professorship. He declined on the ground that it would not yield as great an income as his present occupation as a plasterer!

Ordained to preach the gospel, he had found it far more lucrative to spread plaster. His motive was not selfishness but sheer self-preservation. He and his family could not live on his salary as a minister. The college could not even compete with the building trade's scale of wages. He was making more than $4000 a year!

The preachers have not formed a union; nor have they ever gone on strike, nor even threatened to do so. But quietly, and for the most part unobserved by city folk, they have been leaving the ranks because of their miserably pay. There are thousands of vacant pulpits in the country, most of them in rural places. The city church drains the towns and villages dry of preachers and these vacant places cannot easily be filled. For, while some of the older men stick to the profession in spite of hardships, the younger men coming out of the seminaries ask a living wage in the church or find it elsewhere.

The comparison of the money returns of clergymen with those of skilled or unskilled laborers offers some disquieting food for thought. Thus, the average salary of a minister in the Baptist denomination is $25 a week. A hod carrier gets more than $30, while masons and bricklayers get considerably more than $50. These are average figures. The rate is much higher in various cities.

What's being done about it? About the same thing that is being done about other grave and important issues in our country—letting the situation drift until it becomes almost too serious for any simple remedy. Ordained ministers are abandoning their calling every day to take up other

THE VALUE OF CREDIT

(From Santa Ana Register)

As a community, Santa Ana's credit is good. All wholesale and jobbing merchants, all traveling salesmen, all credit men, all credit associations, Dunn's and Bradstreet's—everybody who knows will tell you that Santa Ana has money in its banks, that it has tremendous natural resources, a steady, reliable and large income. That is a valuable community asset, for community credit connotes individual credit.

But either community or individual credit that is based solely on ability to pay is not the best or highest form of credit. Fortunately, both the community and the individual credit of Santa Ana and Santa Anans includes the moral element—the willingness as well as the ability to pay.

Citizens of Santa Ana should realize the value of their credit, and guard it jealously. Regardless of how well they may be fixed financially, it happens that both communities and individuals are often in a position to ask credit. So long as bills are paid when due, credit is established and becomes a fine thing. In fact, at least 75 per cent of the world's business is done on credit. So, in many instances, credit is an asset instead of a liability. It must be kept good, yet how's a man to keep it good in his home town if he asks credit here and sends away cash when he buys from concerns located in other parts of the country? If the home merchant is willing to sell you something when you haven't the cash handy, isn't it only right and proper that you should buy from the same man when you do wish to spend cash?

Keep your credit good. You may not need it today, not tomorrow. But when you do find it a valuable thing to have. But buying from anyone except your home merchants isn't going to strengthen it very much.

A Thought That Came Today

By HARVEY E. WESTGATE of Glendale

TWO MISERS

I know a man who owns and hoards
A rare old violin,
And keeps it locked within his vaults,
Nor plays a simple air;
That neighbors may not ever hear
Its liquid tones come in,
He hides it where the dust moth lives,
And gloats to see it there.

I know a man who owns and hoards
A heart without a smile,
And keeps it locked within his breast,
Nor cheers with lip or eye;
That none may gather joy from him,
Or love or hope, the while,
He hides it where the hate moth lives,
And gloats to see it die.

—of— Human Nature

GIVING AND TAKING ADVICE

One of the things that Human Nature loves to do is to give advice, but more often than not he refuses advice when it is offered to him. The counsel of those who have our welfare at heart should be welcomed and followed, insofar as it seems sound and good to us, for "ointment and perfume rejoice the heart; so doth the sweetness of a man's friend by hearty counsel." But we are so apt to listen to advice, even to seek it, and then disregard it altogether.

Too often we ask advice to confirm us in a course which we feel is not quite right. If we are advised as we wish we feel justified in pursuing this course. If we are counseled contrary to our wishes we often feel that we should follow our own inclinations and disregard the other's opinion.

Broad-minded people do not depend upon their own intelligence alone. They seek the opinions of others and then weigh and consider them carefully. The really great men and women have those whose counsel they value and whom they consult in all matters of personal or public importance. Big men in public places who are true to their trust know that "where no counsel is the people fall; but in the multitude of counselors there is safety." If we never get the viewpoint of others we become narrow and selfish and egotistical.

But Human Nature is so prone to inflict advice where it is neither asked nor desired. There are those who make themselves tiresome by constantly offering suggestions and opinions and counseling us in all matters. They tell us what kind of a car to buy, they tell us how we should discipline our children and they tell us we should divorce our wives.

Again, there are times when our advice is asked in good faith and we do not take the time to give the matter sufficient consideration to answer intelligently and wisely. We gladly advise a course we ourselves would not pursue under the circumstances. Or, by adroit questioning, we learn what our friend would prefer to do in the matter and then we advise him to do it.

The best and truest friends when we give counsel in this way, but perhaps we are not more blame-worthy or obnoxious than those who give their advice unsought.

In seeking advice it is best to go to one competent to give it and one who has enough interest in us to advise us wisely, rather than to one we know will comfort us in our own opinion.

Human Nature finds advice easy to give but hard to take.

THE STORY

DR. RALPH LESLIE, just graduated from medical college, and just over an attack of typhoid fever, ships on the yacht Ella as a sort of deck steward. He is penniless and thinks this will be a good opportunity to recuperate. Marshall Turner is the owner. His wife, her sister Elsa, a divorcee named Mrs. Johns, and a man named Vail are the passengers. Turner is dissipated and evidently jealous of his wife and Vail. There is a crew of fourteen, including the stewardess, a maid named Karen Hansen, the cook and Williams, the butler. Charlie Jones, a German sailor with a bent for religion, is friendly to Leslie. Captain Richardson and Turner have an argument over running the ship. Turner, drunk, appoints Singleton as captain. Richardson knocks Singleton down, and threatens to put Turner in irons if he interferes with the running of the boat. Mrs. Johns asks Leslie to sleep near the passenger's staterooms, in a pantry, as she is afraid of trouble. One night Schwartz, the second mate, disappears overboard, though nobody sees him jump. On the night of August 12 Leslie wakes in the pantry to find himself locked in. He unscrews the lock, hears a woman's screams, runs to Vail's room for help—and finds Vail dead, murdered with an axe. He goes to tell the captain, and finds him dead, killed in the same way. Singleton collapses and is too stupefied to take command. When Leslie goes to call Karen, the maid, to help the ladies, he finds that she, too, has been murdered. Burns, one of the crew, who had been fond of her, is especially upset. Mrs. Sloane, the stewardess, is in a state of collapse. The men put Leslie in charge, and they decide to head back to port. The axe is found where it was flung into the stewardess's berth. She says that Karen had been roused by a bell in the night, she thought Mrs. Turner's, but Mrs. Turner says she did not ring. Karen told the stewardess she thought Turner, who had annoyed her, was outside the door. She opened the door, screamed, and fell dead. Mrs. Sloane said she saw a figure in white in the door throw the axe toward her.

X—THE BELLS

That was her story, and it did not tell us much that we needed to know. She showed me her right arm, which was badly bruised and discolored at the shoulder.

"What do you mean by a white figure?"

"It looked white; it seemed to shine."

"When I went to call you, Mrs. Sloane, the door to your room was closed."

"I saw it closed!" she said positively. "I had forgotten that, but now I remember. The ax fell beside me, and I tried to scream, but I could not. I saw the door closed, very slowly and without a sound. Then I faint."

"Karen exclaimed," Miss Lee said slowly, "that some one was sitting on the companion steps?"

"Yes, miss."

"And she thought that it was Mr. Turner?"

"Yes," The stewardess looked quickly at Mrs. Turner, and averted her eyes. "It may have been all talk, miss, about his being about his bothering her. She was a great one to fancy that men were following her about."

Miss Lee got up and came to the door where I was standing.

"Surely we need not be prisoners any longer!" she said in an undertone. "It is daylight. If I stay here I shall go crazy."

"The murderer is still on the ship," I protested. "And just now the deck is—hardly a place for women. Wait until this afternoon, Miss Lee. By that time I shall have arranged for a guard for you. Although God knows, with every man under suspicion where we will find any to trust."

"You will arrange a guard?"

"The men have asked me to take charge."

"But—I don't understand. The first mate—"

"—is a prisoner of the crew."

"They accuse him!"

"They have to accuse some one. There's a sort of hysteria among the men, and they've fixed on Singleton. They won't hurt him—I'll see to that—and it makes for order."

She considered for a moment. I had time then, to see the havoc the night had wrought in her. She was pale, with deep hollows around her eyes. Her hands shook and her mouth drooped wearily. But, although her face was lined with grief, it was not the passionate sorrowing of a loving girl. She had not loved Vail, I said to my heart. She had not loved Vail. My heart beat faster.

"Will you allow me to leave this room for five minutes?"

"If I may go with you, and if you will come back without protest."

"You are arbitrary!" she said resentfully. "I only wish to speak to Mr. Turner."

"Miss Lee," I said desperately, "surely you must realize the state of affairs. We must trust no one—no one. Every shadowy corner, every closed door, may hold death in its most terrible form."

"You are right of course. Will you wait outside? I can dress and be ready in five minutes."

I went into the main cabin, now bright with the morning sun, which streamed down the forward companionway. The door to Vail's stateroom was open, and Williams, working in nervous haste, was putting it in order. Walking up and down, his shrewd eyes keenly alert. Charlie Jones was on guard, revolver in hand. He came over to me at once.

"Turner is moving in there," he said, jerking his thumb toward the forward cabin. "What are you going to do? Let a drunken sot like that give us orders, and bang us with a belaying pin when we don't please him?"

"He is the owner. But one thing we can do, Jones. We can keep him from more liquor. Williams!"

He came out, more dead than alive.

"Williams," I said sternly, "I give you an hour to get rid of every ounce of liquor on the Ella. Remember, not a bottle is to be saved."

"But Mistah Turner—"

"I'll answer to Mr. Turner. Get it overboard before he gets around. And, Williams!"

"Well!"—sullenly.

"I'm going around after you, and if I find so much as a pint I'll put you in that room you have just left, and lock you in."

He turned even graver, and went into the stateroom.

A day later, and the crew would probably have resented what they did that morning. But that day they only looked up apathetically from their gruesome work of sewing into bags of canvas the sheeted bodies on the deck, while a gray-faced negro in a white coat flung over the rail cases of fine wines, baskets and boxes full of bottles, dozen after dozen of brandies and liquors, all sinking beyond salvage in the blue Atlantic.

My first thought had been for the women, and, unluckily, to save them I had taken command. When the crime cleared away as quickly as possible, stains that might have been of invaluable service in determining the murderer were washed away almost before they were dry. I realized this now.

But the ax remained, and I felt that its handle probably contained a record for more skillful eyes than mine to read, prints that under the microscope would reveal the murderer's identity as clearly as a photograph.

I sent for Burns, who reported that he had locked the ax in the captain's cabin. He gave me the key, which I fastened to a string and hung around my neck under my shirt. He also reported that, as I had suggested, the crew had gone, two at a time, into the fore-castle, and had brought up what they had found to stow on deck. The fore-castle had been closed and locked in the presence of the crew, and the key given to Burns, who fastened it to his watch-chain. The two hatchways leading to the hold had been fastened down also, and, I saw, was ship's carpenter, not long before I thrust it into my shirt.

When Burns gave me the key to the captain's room Charlie Jones had reached the other end of the long cabin, and was staring through into the chartroom. It was a time to trust no one, and I assured myself that Jones was not looking before I thrust it into my shirt.

"They're—all ready, Leslie," Burns said, his face working.

"What are we going to do with them?"

"We'll have to take them back."

"But we can't do that. It's a two weeks' matter, and in this weather—"

"We will take them back, Burns," I said shortly, and he assented mechanically.

"Aye, aye, sir."

Just how it was to be done was a difficult thing to decide. Miss Lee had not appeared yet, and the three of us, Jones, Burns, and I, talked it over. Jones suggested that we put them in one of the life boats, and nail over it a canvas and tarpaulin cover.

"I don't like that," he said modestly. "I seen it done once, on the Argentina. It worked all right for a while, and after a week or so we lowered the jolly-boat and towed it astern."

I shuddered; but the idea was a good one, and I asked Burns to go up and get the boat ready.

"We must let the women go this afternoon," I said, "and, if it is possible, try to keep them from learning where the bodies are. We can rope off a part of the deck for them, and ask them not to leave it."

Miss Lee came out then, and Burns went on deck.

"You must not keep us prisoners any longer, Leslie," she said. "Put a guard over us, if you must, but let us up in the air."

"This afternoon, Miss Lee," I said. "This morning you are better below."

"I understand," she said finally. "Will you take me to Karen's room?"

I could see no reason for objecting; but so thorough was the panic that had infected us all that I would not allow her in until I had preceded her, and I had searched in the closets and under the two bunks. Williams had not reached this room yet, and there was a pool of blood on the floor.

She had a great deal of courage. She glanced at the stain, and looked away again quickly.

"I think I shall come in. Will you look at the bell register for me? What bell is registered?"

"Three."

"Three!" she said. "Are you sure?"

"I looked again. 'It is three.'"

"Then it was not my sister's bell that rang. It was Mr. Vail's!"

"It must be a mistake. Perhaps the wires—"

"Mrs. Turner's room is number one. Please go back and ask her to ring her bell, while I see how it registers."

AWARD TEACHER IMPORTANT POST ON SCHOOL BODY

Appointment of Miss Annie McIntyre Considered as Just Reward

The appointment of Miss Annie McIntyre as assistant to Richardson D. White, superintendent of the city schools, by the school board Tuesday night comes as a just reward to her after many years of faithful and outstanding service in the educational institutions of this city. Although minor details of the new position have yet to be worked out, in general her duties are threefold: First, direct supervision of all work in the kindergartens and the first four grades; second, the supervision of nature study in the kindergartens and the first grades; third, co-operation with Mr. White this summer in outlining the course of study for next year. She will assume her new duties July 1.

Here Twenty-Two Years
Born in New Brunswick, Canada, Miss McIntyre has been very active in Glendale for twenty-two years. She makes her home with her brother, James F. McIntyre, superintendent of the commercial department of the department of public service, at 718 East Harvard street. She graduated from the Los Angeles State Normal school in the class of 1906, and taught at the Broadway, Colorado Street and Columbus Avenue schools. When the Central Avenue school was formed in 1913, she was appointed principal, a position she has occupied continuously since that time.

Active in Club
She is eminently qualified for her new position. She served as treasurer of the Supervisors' Association of Southern California for three years, and has been very active in the Glendale City Teachers' club. She is also a member of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce. Her elevation to the position of assistant superintendent will

Shows Need for Pact Among Balkan States

MILWAUKEE, May 1.—"Macedonia is the football of the east chiefly because it is not in sympathy with the interests of the Balkan states of Bulgaria, Greece and Serbia." That was the statement of Mihail Nikoloff, general secretary of the Macedonian political headquarters, Port Wayne, Ind., who spoke before the Milwaukee Macedonian Educational brotherhood. Because of this condition, he pointed out, the need of a Balkan federation is acute.

EXPLAINS POLICY OF ASSOCIATION

'Keep the White Spot White' Is Only Object Sought, Says H. H. Merrick

Harry H. Merrick, president of the Greater Los Angeles Association, today issued the following statement: "The only aim of the Greater Los Angeles Association is to put over greater Los Angeles and the Pacific Southwest as the industrial white spot of the world. 'The Greater Los Angeles Association is thoroughly a business enterprise and is in no sense political and cannot and will not take sides in controversial matters. 'The slogan, 'Keep the White Spot White,' was adopted by the Greater Los Angeles Association in its campaign to promote industrial development. This organization is non-political and the use of this slogan by any other organization is unauthorized."

More than 10,000 rabbits were killed in a one-day drive in Colorado recently. relieve Mr. White of some of his duties, which, owing to the rapid increase in the enrollment of the city schools, have been very arduous the past year. ## EAGLE ROCK CHIEF OUTLINES NEEDS OF POLICE

Vollmer Gives Few Figures Showing Why Additional Money Imperative

Police Chief August Vollmer of Los Angeles, who talked before the Eagle Rock Women's Twentieth Century club last Saturday, has issued the following statement in order to provide local people with reliable information for the elections of May 6:

"There may be some questions as to why voters should be asked to pass upon a bond issue of $1,600,000 for police equipment. Let me cite a few examples touching upon the general situation in Los Angeles, in order to show that it is vitally necessary that additional equipment, such as police stations, signal devices and other such necessary elements be provided if we are to cut down the tremendous loss of $7,000,000 a year which criminals are collecting in Los Angeles.

"The Lincoln Heights police station serves a district of thirty miles. Here you have a good-sized city in itself, yet there is only minor police protection afforded a great number of residents in that section of town. There should be a properly equipped police station, jail, patrol wagons, and an ambulance and automobiles, as well as signal means whereby the police are able to meet any and every emergency.

"On the other side of town is the University police station. This district comprises a territory equal in area to Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley.

The Human Side
"Now take the human side of the question.

"The percentage of men killed and injured in the police service compares in the matter of percentage with the soldiers killed and injured during the world war.

"It has been proved that it is necessary to divorce a police department from politics because we realize that the demoralization of the police departments of the country is due to the activities of petty politicians.

"Now take some statistical figures on the subject. 'I have before me a chart. In one column is the city of Chicago, known as 'the wickedest city in the world.' In 1919 there were approximately 2800 burglaries in Los Angeles. In the same year there were approximately 6200 burglaries in Chicago.

"In all of Great Britain last year there were fewer murders than in Los Angeles in the corresponding period."

School Board Forecast
K. W. Hunt, member of the board of governors of the Los Angeles Realty Board, Eagle Rock division, predicts that the vote on the school bond issue will be unanimous from this community.

"One of the crying needs of Eagle Rock," he says, "is additional school buildings. Already a few families have left our city temporarily because of the inconvenience of placing their children in high school. Every citizen should strive to blot out this condition. We can secure, by carrying the school bonds at the coming election, three major buildings, as well as obtaining a high school building, will not be increased materially because of the vast business section of Los Angeles paying a large share of the school tax. No single issue before the voters in the June election is of more immediate benefit to Eagle Rock than the carrying of the school bonds. Judging from public opinion, Eagle Rock will vote almost unanimously for the school bonds."

FIRM WILL DEAL IN REAL ESTATE

Barlow & Hoopes to Handle General Realty Line in Local Field

Another real estate firm was established in Glendale today when Barlow & Hoopes announced that they had taken over the real estate branch of the Charles F. Hahn business at 117 West Broadway and that they will conduct it on their own account in future. Mr. Hahn will retain his own private office in the same place and will use it as his headquarters.

A. C. Barlow, one of the firm, has been connected with the Hahn organization since 1913. For some time, and Frank Hoopes, the other partner, has been associated in a responsible capacity with Dutton, the Home Fynder, so that their decision to embark in the realty business here is based on a close and intimate knowledge of local conditions and of the prospects for success in their chosen line.

They will handle general real estate transactions, rentals, loans and insurance, and they declare that they will specialize on Service. Both men are residents of Glendale and are aggressive business men who are determined to do their share toward the development of the city.

Street accidents in London last year caused injury to 69,513 persons, and of those 667 were killed.

TELLS NEED FOR STUDYING CHILD

Mental and Spiritual Growth Of Equal Importance With Physical

In anticipation of the meeting today in Los Angeles of the Los Angeles Federation, tenth district, California, of Mothers and Parent-Teacher association, Mrs. Charles H. Toll of Glendale, prominent club and Parent-Teacher association worker, and founder of the Glendale Mutual Benefit Reading circle, said:

All the world is full of mothers who give the most painstaking care to the child's physical wants. It is quite right that the food and clothing, the play, the sleep of the child should be wisely ruled. But a child has a mental, and more, a spiritual nature, that must be fed as truly as is his physical being if he is to evolve into a well-rounded symmetrical character.

Child's Tender Heart
"Few parents understand fully how to deal with that tender thing, the heart of a child. Many parents experiment and experience teaches them, it is true, but in the process of education the parent, the soul of the child sometimes receives scars that remain through life.

"This is the main reason for the reading and for its attempt to reach the prospective mothers and those with very young children especially."

Mrs. Toll is to have charge of the department of American citizenship, Saturday afternoon, May 31, at the twenty-third annual convention of the California Federation of Women's clubs in Pasadena.

BURBANK QUOTES EXCERPTS FROM STUDY TALK

Recent Lecture Delivered by Prof. Moore Contains Gems of Thought

The paper read by Professor Moore at the recent convention of principals held at Santa Cruz has elicited widespread comment. The theme was "Supervised Study" and while considerable portion of the paper was technical and of interest to educators only, it is felt that the following excerpts may be of interest to Burbank readers:

"The greatest value of supervised study is that it consists of directing the learning activities in a search for truth.

"The teacher's business of provoking a child's mind to 'mental combats' demands a leadership involving enthusiasm expressed in real love of the subjects taught, an affection based on understanding purposes, difficulties, and application of the various subjects."

"The progressive teacher today realizes that to be one who spends long hours correcting mistakes either in the school room or at home is coming short of the highest type of service to her pupils.

"To realize and release potentialities, not control them, makes the job a profession.

"Our student bodies should be made groups of people who are not noted as mental gymnasts or clever sleight-of-brain artists, but as clear minded thinkers. To study is to think.

"I consider supervised or directed study as essential because of the improved type of service to the student and the community it makes possible, because of the improved and enlarged opportunities for recognizing and developing individual differences which it offers, and because of the more objective basis for college recommendation which it affords."

Gustav Rasmus, whose factory in this city manufacturing a certain plant stimulant is well known, has volunteered to give the owner of every cloven-footed animal a gallon of his product.

Dr. E. M. Keef, veterinarian of the state agricultural department, said there could be no objections to the use of the product, and as Mr. Rasmus feels that it will be of greatest benefit, he is willing to give a gallon to anyone who asks for it, if they have cloven-footed stock. He says that it should be placed in the drinking water, and that as it is a blood purifier and has proven effective in cases of cancer, it will keep the blood of the stock pure and their mouths and stomachs free from the disease.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Mrs. T.—In the same letter in which you ask for information about kidney trouble and sciatica, you ask for instructions on reducing. That's quite significant! It is highly probable that all you need are the instructions on reducing. Very many of our followers have been relieved from kidney disorders, and all sorts of neuritis, simply by reducing excess weight.

I'll have articles on sciatica and kidney troubles soon. Better have a complete physical examination by your family physician, while you are waiting for the reducing instructions.

Mrs. W. N. B., Dallas—Please write again, giving your complete address.

Mrs. B.—Yes, it is possible to become pregnant if you have but one tube and one ovary, if they are on the same side. You ask what is meant by systitis. You mean cystitis. Any word with the termination "itis" means inflammation—appendicitis, inflammation of the appendix; tonsillitis, inflammation of the tonsils, etc. Cystitis, when used without a qualifying term, means inflammation of the urinary bladder ("cyst" means bladder). Cholecystitis means inflammation of the gall bladder.

"Dear Dr. Peters—Last spring I weighed 172 pounds. My height is 5 feet 3 inches, so you can guess how I looked. Well, I tried dozens of ways to lose the surplus, but had succeeded in losing only about half a dozen pounds up to September 1. At that time I started to follow your instructions in the paper. Today (not quite two months later) I tip the scales at 135 pounds and hope to be normal (127) in another month.

"Needless to say, I feel better, look better and sleep better. My complexion has improved and I rarely find a pimple (used to

Wins Beauty Contest

RUTH ELLINGTON, turned down at first, shears her luxurious locks and romps home a winner in race for St. Paul's prize for the city's handsomest girl.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 1.—You can't prove to Miss Ruth Ellington that bobbed hair isn't an aid and abettor to beauty.

She entered a beauty contest put on here and was passed up by the judges in a preliminary competition. She noticed that two women chosen in the preliminaries had bobbed hair.

So she went to a barber's and allowed herself, not without a tear or two, to be shorn of her luxurious locks.

The next day she re-entered the contest and—
Lo and behold! She was chosen the queen of queens.

Women of Today

By MRS. LILIAN CAMPBELL

The Rev. Miss Edith Picton-Tuberville, of England, is the only woman formally licensed to preach by the Church of England. She is not ordained in the sense that is understood in liturgical churches, as her activities are confined to the pulpit and platform. Miss Picton-Tuberville is in this country at present, having come here for a convention of the Y. W. C. A., an organization in which she is much interested. Miss Picton-Tuberville is also interested in British politics and has been an ardent suffragist for some years.

In France Mlle. Adrienne Bolland, viatrix, has been made a chevalier of the Legion of Honor in recognition of her services in aiding in the development of French aviation.

President Coolidge, addressing members of the Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement from the south portico of the White House, told them successful law enforcement depended primarily upon the measure of public sentiment for observance of the law.

"I sometimes wish," the president said, "that people would put a little more emphasis upon the observance of the law than they do upon its enforcement. It is a maxim of our institution that the government does not make the people, but the people make the government. That is why a gathering of this kind is so encouraging to me."

The American Child Health Association presents statistics that show that more than 80 per cent of all the children born in America are born normal, though less than 20 per cent reach maturity in normal physical health. This leaves a balance of 60 per cent who drop from normal health to physical unfitness between birth and maturity.

These alarming figures are one reason for the insistence of the American Child Health Association upon the nation-wide observance of May 1 as a child health day.

Mrs. A. H. Hoffman, who for six years has been county superintendent of schools in Polk county, Iowa, which includes the city of Des Moines, has announced her candidacy for congress. She is the first woman in her congressional

HAIR DRESSING

The woman whose hair is thin and short should be delighted with the present day styles of coiffure. For the new hair dressing styles are to show on the contours of the head with only the very smallest and simplest knot in back, and an attractive fluffiness around the sides of the face.

The hair is parted in the side or in the middle, whichever way is most becoming. A fairly generous amount is then brushed forward on each side and allowed to hang down the front of the shoulders. No attention is paid to this for the moment. The rest of the hair is then combed back and either tightly braided and the braid rolled into a knot at the back of the neck, or else tightly coiled, rolled into a small knot and pinned. Next the two loose strands of hair are brushed back and arranged becomingly over the ears and around the face.

If you wish the hair waved, permanently or otherwise, you need have only this front part done, for as you brush this part back you make the wave spread practically over the whole side of the head in a soft and very becoming fashion. The end of this strand is then rolled around the knot of the hair and fastened with pins, the other strand is finished in a similar fashion. For day wear a plain comb, and for evening wear a fancy comb. Make a becoming finish.

If the face is long and thin, or if the hair is limp and wispy, pull some of the front hair down over the face and across in a similar fashion. For day wear a plain comb, and for evening wear a fancy comb. Make a becoming finish.

The face. You can wear the smart little close fitting cloche hats with this type of coiffure, you can also be sure that your hair will stay done up no matter how slippery it is. The front strands can be waved without harming the hair if dampened and rolled on kid curlers twice a week or so.

Anxious—To get rid of vermin in the hair soak it with kerosene and tie up head in a towel overnight. Shampoo next day and wet hair with vinegar. This will loosen the eggs, which can then be combed out with a fine toothed comb, also, kept wet with vinegar. Shampoo a second time, and I think that will end the trouble.

Geraldine W. S.—Do not have your face enameled as it hurts the skin by stopping the pores from acting; besides which, it does not last long and shows how artificial it is.

Thin—The easiest way to gain flesh is to drink four glasses of half milk and half cream, mixed, every day.
Louise C. B.—Dark circles under the eyes are caused by ill-health. Perhaps you do not get enough sleep or enough fresh air. Drinking water as you do is good for you. Have your doctor prescribe a tonic.

Heart and Home

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

CITY GIRL IS TROUBLEMAKER
Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 17 and am living on a farm. I am good-looking, and very popular. I have been going with a boy for four months and I think very much of him.

Another girl from another city came here about three months ago and he started going with her. Then he stopped coming to see me. I was angry at him and said he wondered if I would go back to him. That other girl has gone home now. He also told boys that he was going to come to see me again.

Please advise me what to do.
G. N. L.

I should think it would hurt your pride to have the boy come back now that it is no longer possible for him to go with the other girl. Of course if he means to forget pride, let him come. But do not refer to the other girl or let him know that you recognized her as your rival or were jealous of her.

SHE MUST CHOOSE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a woman thirty-five years old and have a dear lovable boy 16 who, I regret to say, got into drinking and has caused me a great deal of worry. I am married to my second husband and he wants the boy to go away and never come near home again. What shall I do? I love my husband, but my mother love is also strong.

ANXIOUS MOTHER.

Jess your boy can be put in a school where his character will be watched. I think your duty is to stand by him. Probably your husband does not need you as much as the boy. I would suggest that you let your son entertain his friends at home. Serve a light lunch and make everything as pleasant as possible for him to go away and get into bad ed to go away and get into bad company.

SHOULD SHE TAKE IN HER MOTHER-IN-LAW

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a married lady with a husband and six children from four to twenty years of age. My husband works at public work and we live in a small rented house and have a hard time making a living. My husband's mother has always worked since the death of her husband while she was able to cook and work, but now she is getting old and feeble and people want me to take her in and keep her and take care of her.

We are not able and I don't think it is my duty. What do you think?
NOT A PROBLEM.

It seems to me that even if you get along on less, which may seem to you impossible, that you ought to take your husband's poor old mother. Of course if there is some one else in her family better fitted to keep her, and your husband feels as you do about the matter, the obligation should not fall on you entirely. If you expect good things in life or in the hereafter it does seem to me that you must forget yourself and trust in an ample supply to feed one more mouth and to care for a poor old lady who took care of herself as long as she possibly could.

NEARLY ENTERS YALE

Girls are not admitted to Yale college, but Louise Elghmie, daughter of an alderman at Poughkeepsie, sufficiently fooled all the examiners and others, to pass the entrance requirements. She backed out at the last minute, fearing a scandal if she was found out. She desires to study medicine, and, although less than 18, is proceeding with her ambition, having entered Syracuse university as a regular co-ed. She wants to be a specialist in children's diseases.

MAKE LIFE WORTH LIVING

Don't go around feeling tired, lacking in energy and strength, because your kidneys are not working properly. The use of FOLEY PILLS, a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys, will give your kidneys a good flushing, remove injurious waste matter and bring your kidneys back to a normal, active condition. "Your FOLEY PILLS are the only thing I ever got to do me any good," writes Samuel Brenner, Alexandria, Ind. Fashion forecasts tell us that this summer will find knitted and crocheted garments as popular as ever. That means that the woman who cannot afford to buy made garments of this variety, will be busy with yarn and needles from now on.

There is more pleasure in knitting and crocheting if one has a pretty bag in which to keep one's work. Indeed, some sort of bag is a necessity, and the woman who would like to equip herself with a new one could not do better than to make one of the new Circular Lap Bags, as follows:

A Knitting Bag That Costs $1:
The idea of this new kind of bag is that it can be used wide open, on the lap, while a woman is knitting; it has a white lining, which protects the knitting from the knitter's dress skirt. If it hangs closed, like any other bag, with the balls and needle in it, when the knitter is not at work.

It may, of course, be made of very cheap or very expensive materials—so long as it is made in circular shape, with rings about the edges for the draw-strings to run through, and has a white lining. But I am going to describe a moderately priced bag of this style, giving approximate cost:

Buy three-quarters of a yard of flowered cretonne which costs about 40 cents a yard. Also buy three-quarters of a yard of 40 cent white soisette for the lining. Cut these two pieces of material into as large a circle as you can get out of that length material—that is, each circle will be twenty-seven inches in diameter. Put the two circles together, the cretonne face inward, and sew them together one-fourth inch from the edge of goods, leaving a five-inch space unsewed. Now turn the large circular pocket inside out and begin to French the edge seam, by again stitching close to the edge all around. You must, of course, blind-stitch the part which you left unsewed because of the turning.

Buy one dozen black bone rings. These should cost 10 cents a dozen. Sew all twelve at even intervals around the extreme edge of the large disc of material. For drawstrings, buy three yards of black silk cording (the narrow cording costs at 10 cents a yard) and divide this into two pieces—a yard and a half for each drawstring.

Thus, the bag has cost exactly $1: cretonne, 30c; soisette, 30c; bone rings, 10c; cording, $30c.

HIGHLY IDEALISTIC

Emile Cone, world famous for his "day by day in every way" movement, on his most recent trip to the United States underwent a psychology test at Birmingham, Ala. He was found to be highly idealistic, only a fair mathematician and scientist, of tremendous imagination, being adequate in the time of music, but "off" in tone, and as being very sincere.

RECEPTION AT HOME FOR PACKARD

Dixie Motor Company Is Host; Concert to Be Feature Tonight

The formal opening of the new showrooms and service department of the Dixie Motor Company is being held all day today at the building that has just been completed at 1129-1131 South Brand boulevard, where the Packard and the Gray cars, for which the firm has the agency in this territory, will be sold in future.

But the real fireworks will start at 7:30 tonight, when the 36-piece Glendale Community Band will take its place on the mezzanine floor and render a three-hour concert.

Flowers in profusion are adding a touch of beauty to the establishment, and refreshments will be served to the guests tonight.

The new Packard home, which has been built by W. H. Daniel, the head of the company, at a cost of close to $25,000, has a showroom of 50 feet square, lighted on the east and the south by windows running almost to the ceiling. The offices of Mr. Daniel, of George A. Whitaker, sales manager, the accessory department, and of the accounting department, are on the ground floor, and on the mezzanine floor there are the offices of the salesmen and also a retiring room for women.

Expert Mechanics
In the service department there is ample room, covering a space of 50 by 100 feet, for the care and service of the cars that may be brought in, and all the work of this department will be in the hands of expert mechanics who have been working on Packard cars for years.

The walls of the showroom are in white jazz finish, and the spacious floor affords room for the display of a large number of cars. In the exhibit today, placed in various parts of the showroom and the service department, are shown a seven passenger Packard Eight touring car, a seven passenger Single Six, showing the chassis, a four passenger Single Six coupe with balloon tires, a five passenger Single Six touring car, a special paint job, and a five passenger Single Six sedan, all 1924 models with four wheel brakes.

The Gray line embraces the 1924 model O, five passenger sedan, four passenger coach, five passenger touring, and the coupe.

Club to Come Down
The Glendale Community band that is to play tonight has been sponsored by the Exchange club, to which Mr. Daniel and Mr. Whitaker belong and the club members will be on hand to wish the firm success in its new quarters.

1923 PLATES MAY CAUSE ARREST

Chief Fraser Directs Local Officers to Check Up on 1924 Licenses

Working under the provisions of the edict issued by Will H. Marsh, superintendent of the state division of motor vehicles, conveyed through Chief Fraser, local police officers, commencing today, will keep a sharp lookout for all motorists driving machines carrying 1923 license plates.

Yesterday was the last day of grace allowed car owners who have not secured their 1924 licenses. All those found without the current plates will be arrested. Section 81 of the California Vehicle Act provides that "Whenever any vehicle shall be operated upon the public highways of this state without there having been paid therefor the registration or transfer fee required by this act, such fee shall be deemed delinquent, and if such fee shall not be paid within thirty days after the same becomes delinquent a penalty equal to such fee shall be added thereto and collected."

Technically the period of grace expired long ago, but the law has not been enforced owing to the great rush of business at the motor vehicle department since the first of the year, and the difficulty in supplying all applicants with plates. The congestion is now over, and all delinquents are to be brought into court. If they provide that all fees due the state shall be deemed as a lien against the vehicle, and any machine can be impounded and sold by the state.

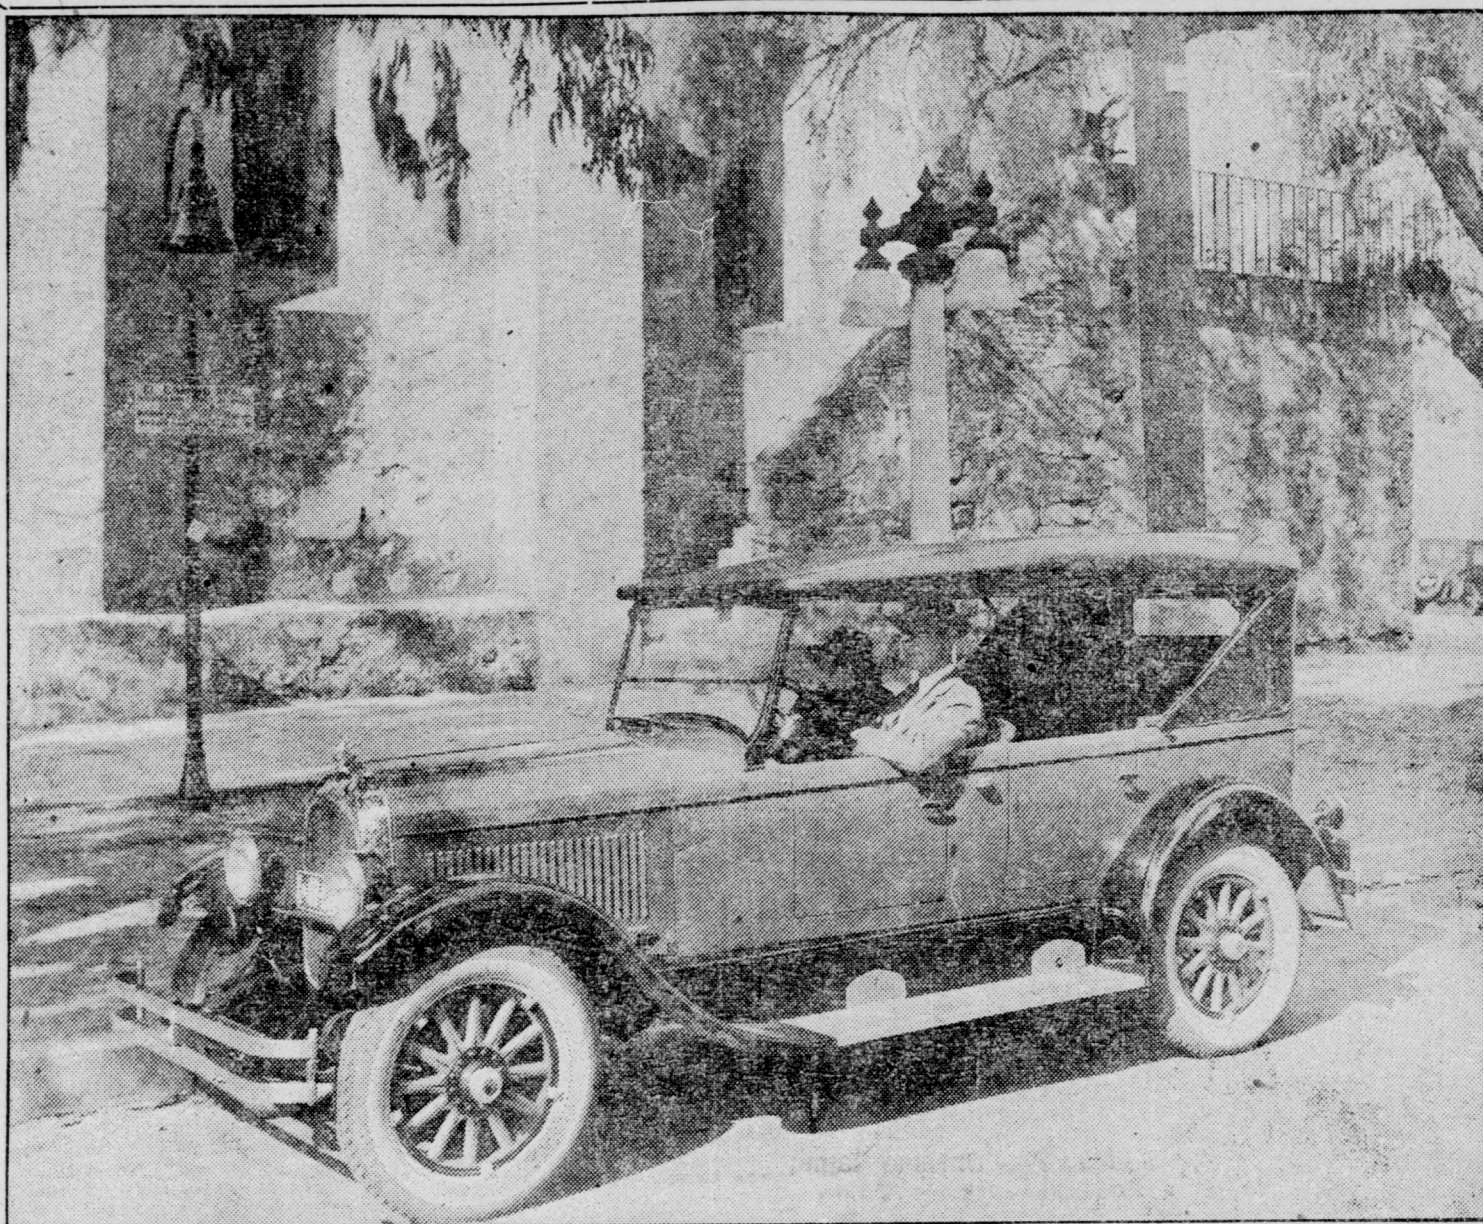

Mr. Marsh also informed Chief Fraser that extensive preparations for a statewide campaign against violators of headlight provisions of the motor vehicle act are going into effect today. Members of the state highway patrol and police in all large cities will co-operate with the state division of motor vehicles in enforcing headlight regulations and punishing offenders.

Official headlighting testing stations are scattered throughout the state and an operator is liable to be called upon at any time to produce his certificate of inspection. The license department in Los Angeles reports that they have a large supply of plates and all bills will not be accepted by the officers in the future.

Coincident with the campaign to be launched against motorists with 1923 licenses, Chief Fraser has instructed R. Derr, poundmaster, to impound all dogs found with 1923 licenses. The records in the office of the city clerk show that the drive of the police officers against dogs without licenses was very productive of results, yet there are a few dog owners in the city who have not taken out a 1924 license. As one third of the year is gone Chief Fraser believes that ample time has been given to all owners to take out the necessary licenses.

Combines History With Pleasure

H. B. WISHART and his wife, GLADYS SPARR WISHART, in a Chrysler Six Phaeton, visited three of California's missions on the travelogue this week, and afforded an opportunity to contrast the new with the old. The Phaeton is shown standing in front of the San Gabriel Mission.

Easy to Locate Dead Cylinders on Engine

To locate a "dead" cylinder, run the engine and open the cylinder pet cocks, one at a time. If the cylinder is dead the gases will not be exploded in the cylinder and there will be no loud report heard coming from the open pet cock. If there are no cylinder pet cocks, touch the end of a screwdriver (one with an electrically insulated handle) to the cylinder casting and the side of the screwdriver to the top of a spark plug. If spark between screwdriver and the engine casting at any cylinder does not diminish the speed of the running motor (determined by careful listening) that cylinder is the one which is dead.

Wasteful Oil Drips Foul Motor Engine

Oil drips frequently come from loose cap screws on the crank case, from the bearings, from the plungers or tappets above the crankshaft. In addition to being wasteful, drips of this kind make a frightfully messy engine and should be attended to promptly. In some cases where oil drips it up and scatters it over the inside of the hood.

Replace Lubricating Oil Every 500 Miles

Drain out all old oil in motor and replace with clean oil every 500 miles. Always make sure gauge registers proper level and that pressure gauge indicates properly.

Spark Plugs Should Be Cleaned Properly

Examine all spark plugs. Clean and set all points at about the thickness of a ten-cent piece, and in replacing be sure they sit tight in cylinders.

Cover Headlights in Rain to Keep Shiny

Head lamps can be kept bright for a long time by covering the surface with polish paste or by using a pair of fabric or leather covers when it starts to rain.

BACK FIRE PERIL

An automobile will catch fire more quickly from back fire than from any other cause. Too lean a mixture fed to the cylinders will produce a sheet of flame from the air intake of the carburetor.

ASK AID OF MOTORISTS IN 'WAR'

Driving Public Must Take Quarantine Enforcement With Good Grace

Estimates of experts that 90 per cent of the spreading of the hoof-and-mouth disease is done by human beings and motor vehicles has enlisted keenest interest of motorists in preventative measures. The strict quarantine measures enforced, which constantly are being made more drastic, have brought the public to realize that this epidemic among cattle affects the economic welfare of every resident of the state. The seriousness of the situation has forced individuals to recognize the rights of public policy, and emphasized the fact that it is up to everyone to aid in combating the disease.

Lends Every Aid

From the report of the first case in this section, the Automobile Club of Southern California has been actively co-operating with the authorities in fighting the epidemic. Branch managers of the organization in twenty-nine cities have been kept in close touch with every development; the touring bureau has given out the latest traveling information; the public safety department has sent out warnings; the sign-posting department has placarded the closed roads and placed warning signs for quarantine dips; the news department has been supplying bulletins to the papers, and the entire organization has devoted its energies to organizing the 600,000 motorists of southern California into a solid phalanx for fighting this dreaded malady.

It is pointed out that California must exercise the same control and self-sacrifice as during the World war, for an unseen and little-understood foe has attacked the prosperity of the state. Unless this ruthless enemy is conquered promptly, it may bring disaster to agriculture and commerce.

In view of the serious menace, the automobile club is urging its members and every motorist in the state to co-operate to the fullest extent with the authorities in stamping out the hoof-and-mouth disease.

SET AXLE FIRMLY

A zigzagging wheel is remedied by having the axle set firmly and the bushings snugly adjusted.

Cushion for Creeper Made from Inner Tube

A comfortable rest or cushion for a creeper can be made by using a section of an old inner tube with the valve. Cut out about a foot of section containing the valve and vulcanize the ends so that it may be inflated. The ends can be arranged so that the valve stem will point downward or project from the side, whichever may be the most convenient.

Oil Thrust Bearings On Clutch Regularly

A dragging clutch may be caused by too close adjustment or by lack of lubrication of the thrust bearing. The thrust bearing at the rear of the clutch shaft and the throwing collar bearing should be kept well lubricated. If these bearings become worn appreciably, the clutch will not operate satisfactorily.

Simple Methods for Suppressing Squeaks

Before a car is examined for rattles and squeaks it should be thoroughly washed and dried, all bolts and nuts tightened and all parts thoroughly lubricated. After a trial run, the actual cause of the noise will frequently prove a surprise when the indication of its location, as judged by the sound, is considered.

Hose Connections to Be Changed Each Year

Be sure that all hose connections are changed once a year. Hot water rots the rubber loosens up the fabric, which gets in the way of the water, cutting down the efficiency of the cooling system.

Equipment Should Be Examined with Care

Examine the electrical equipment to make sure that the generator and ammeter are functioning properly and that lighting circuit, starter and horn connections are secure.

ELIMINATE NOISES

A motorist should train his ears for any existing rattles, especially when the car is traveling at different speeds. Many annoying noises coming from doors, hood, fenders and shock absorbers can be stopped and the riding value of the car can be increased greatly.

WILL TEACH RULES FOR SAFETY

San Francisco Methods Will Be Illustrated With Moving Pictures

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—As a result of the record made in San Francisco last year where deaths from motor vehicle accidents were reduced 20 per cent, motorists and pedestrians of the entire nation are to be instructed in the principles of safety first as regards automobile operation and conduct on the streets, according to an announcement made by the California State Automobile Association.

San Francisco's record in traffic death reduction, which has been attributed largely to the public safety campaign conducted last year by the Automobile Association in co-operation with the city police department, recently attracted the attention of two of the largest film companies. As a result, a national safety first news reel will be shown in thousands of theatres in every state in the nation. Percy E. Towne, chairman of the Automobile club's public safety committee, said yesterday.

Will Use Films

Educational methods used in San Francisco have been worked out in a news reel which will soon be released by the Fox Film Service and International News Reel. The film is based on a scenario written and directed by the public safety department of the Automobile club, Towne said. It will be shown in most of the motion picture theatres in the country.

Wreck Six Cars

"There will be plenty of thrills for the spectator in this safety first film," Towne said. "That it is not the ordinary type of educational film will be realized from the fact that six automobiles were wrecked in portraying the results of improper driving methods. Two cars were sent over a cliff, one demolished in a crossing accident, and three others smashed in traffic accidents. The film shows how these accidents could have been avoided."

CHRYSLER AUTO, LATEST ADDITION TO MOTORDOM, VISITS AGED MISSIONS

Three of Earliest Spiritual Centers Still Standing Can Be Reached Without Any Detours on Account of Quarantine

By A. S. HALL

Of The Evening News Staff.

In these days when quarantine regulations are rightfully enforced by federal and state officials in an effort to stamp out the dreaded foot and mouth disease, travel trips in automobiles are hard to plan, but this week H. B. Wishart, 1221 East Wilson avenue, sales manager of the Glendale Motor Car Company, 124 West Colorado boulevard, outlines a trip made in a Chrysler Six phaeton that takes the motorists to three of the historic missions of the state, without running afoul of fumigation stations or quarantine regulations.

Incidentally, the journey afforded an opportunity to contrast the new with the old, inasmuch as the Chrysler Six is the latest addition to motordom, while the spiritual centers of early days still standing are surrounded by an atmosphere of California's struggle years ago, when the Franciscan friars sought to win and convert the poorest tribes of all North American Indians.

Three Close at Hand

Close at hand are three of the numerous missions built by the Franciscan friars. One is the San Fernando mission, with its quaint romantic background. Another is the well-known San Gabriel mission, made more famous by the writings of John Steven McGoarty, while the third mission today stands almost buried in the onrush of commercialism—the Mission Los Angeles.

Mr. Wishart and his charming wife, Gladys Sparr Wishart, discovered the circular mission route while driving about in an effort to secure a little outing that would not take them into quarantined areas, and at the same time to find something different than the usual run of scenery found in inter-city driving.

The trip was made in a Chrysler Six phaeton, furnished by Lyman P. Clark, president of the Glendale Motor Car company.

San Fernando First

The first mission visited on the circular tour was the San Fernando mission, founded in 1797. The route followed was over San Fernando boulevard from Glendale direct to the heart of the valley city, and the excellent valley road was made all the more wonderful by the easy riding qualities of the Chrysler car.

Reaching the center of the city, a turn to the left was made on the road leading direct to the mission. A few minutes' drive and the travelogue party stood in front of one of the most interesting missions in California.

While the church itself is hardly more than a picturesque mission now, the convent adjoining is in a fair state of preservation and caretakers at the mission delight in explaining the many historic articles to be found within the adobe walls.

Recalls Gold Find

One familiar with the history of California cannot help but recall the discovery of gold linked with the San Fernando mission. Tales of the early days reveal the fact that 14 miles north of the mission, back in the green-clad hills that form an appropriate setting for this gem of missionary masonry, a large vein of gold was uncovered in 1842.

Gold from this lode, discovered several years before Marshall made his strike in the north, was taken to the mission in bags made of tanned deerhide, and the bags put behind the altar, so the story goes. The exact location of the lode was never made known, the secret dying with one of the padres and an Indian girl who saved his life one day when he was bitten by a rattlesnake, according to tradition.

The bags of gold were stolen from the church, according to the story the caretakers will tell you, but the bags were returned, and today one might see the weather-worn, time-aged bags of tanned deerhide said to have once held thousands of dollars' worth of gold dust.

After retracing the route to San Fernando, the travelogue party

Courts Rule Persons Afoot Are Protected

The long suffering pedestrian at last wins a victory over the motorist.

The third district appellate court has ruled that California pedestrians have as much right to be in the center of a public highway as have automobilists.

The court reversed the decision of the superior court of Madera county, which had informed R. Devecchio that he had no right to be in the middle of the street and therefore had no right to demand $10,000 for injuries received when knocked down by an automobile driven by Walter A. Barr.

The California traffic statutes do not deny a pedestrian his ancient and established right to be "upon the king's highway," the court declared.

And, moreover, precautions must be taken by the motorist. The man on foot is not required by law to be on the lookout for

Windshield Wiper Is Made from Old Tube

When the rubber on an old windshield wiper wears out, it can be readily replaced by taking an old inner tube and cutting two strips exactly the same as those removed from the wiper to fit the clamps.

CORRECT AIR PRESSURE

A tire with too much air loses all the benefits of a pneumatic tire. One literally "rides on air," but if the tires are overinflated the car will receive a severe jolting that will tend to shorten its life. A soft fabric tire, on the other hand, gets so much bending that it heats up and rapidly deteriorates. Follow carefully the manufacturer's rule of pressure required for each size.

the motorist, but the motorist must guard the life of the pedestrian, who may or may not, as he pleases, be walking right down the center of the street.

Split Washers Keep Bolts from Rattling

When crown bars and cotters are not supplied in motorcar construction, good well-tempered split washers may be placed under the heads of bolts to keep them from rattling loose.

SECRET MARKS HELP

Play safe and put secret identification marks on your car. This will help you identify it should the car suddenly fall into the hands of motor thieves. These marks can be placed inside hub caps, on the frame, the running gear, bottom part of brake drum, or a personal or business card placed inside the upholstery in a place known only to the owner. Several markings should be put on the car in case one or two may be discovered and removed.

Slam has 9,000,000 population, an area of 195,000 square miles, and only 1,485 miles of railway open to traffic.

'SAY LISTEN' TO BE STAGED WITH BRILLIANT CAST

Professional Talent to Take Part in Musical Show Opening Tonight

The three-act comedy, "Say Listen," which is sponsored by the Scouts and the Tuesday Afternoon club of Glendale, will be presented for the first time in Glendale tonight and tomorrow night, Thursday and Friday nights, May 1 and May 2, in the auditorium of the Broadway High school.

The entire cast is composed of professional people and is being directed by the writer, Miss Flora Kilpatrick of New York and Glendale, well known here for her ability as a musician and vocalist. Miss Kilpatrick is a pupil of the late Francis A. Grant, and has recently returned from a concert tour in the eastern states after finishing two years' work as soloist in a New York church.

Professional Talent
The cast includes several prominent professional people of Los Angeles. Norman Kelch of Los Angeles, bass soloist at the Presbyterian church and a member of the Orpheus club, takes the leading male role.

E. F. Maxwell of Los Angeles, noted actor and theatre manager, who has had over 20 years' stage experience throughout the middle west, will also have one of the leading roles.

Don Sheldine, also of Los Angeles, noted for his appearance in Shakespearean roles and as a motion picture actor, takes the villain's part.

Jack Lawrence of Orpheus fame, and director of the plays put on weekly at Russell's Pot Boilers in Los Angeles and drama director of the production "Say Listen," is taking the comedian's part.

Miss Helen McPeck of Hollywood, a very clever comedienne, is taking the part opposite Mr. Lawrence.

Glendale Dancers
Sarah Chandler and Lois Naudain, students of Miss Edith Lindsay and well-known in Glendale for their artistic dancing, will appear in duet dances in the production.

Besides those mentioned a number of Glendale's dancers and vocalists will appear in the chorus.

The Glendale Scouts' prize-winning band, with fifteen musicians compose the orchestra.

"Say Listen" is without a doubt one of the largest productions staged by professionals in Glendale, and is one that every Glendalian will want to see.

OPEN GIFT SHOP ON SOUTH BRAND

Formal Opening Being Held Today as Proprietors Make New Friends

The Casey Ann Gift Shop, located at 606 South Brand boulevard, Glendale's unique and artistic little shop, is holding a formal opening today.

Glendale's society matrons will find just the kind of place cards, favors, and articles suitable for prizes for the Mah Jongg tea, Bridge or Five Hundred party. The shop is specializing in Oriental goods and novelties and has a complete line of equipment and favors for the Mah Jongg or Pung Chow party.

Art Glassware
In addition to table appointments and Oriental goods the shop has a line of art glassware and fancy pottery. Hand painted goods, such as dainty vases, clever pencils, and hand decorated tally and place cards are also to be found. Mrs. Casey has secured the services of an artist in New York City to do special work for them and to keep them in touch with the latest fads and fancies in this line of goods.

The Casey Ann Gift Shop is just the place to find the distinctive gift for the particular friend. The shop will be open from about 8:30 a. m. to 7:30 p. m.

Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Casey extend an invitation to all Glendalians to visit the Casey Ann Gift Shop.

SPARK PLUG INSPECTIONS

It is always a good plan to go over the plugs at stated periods to see that they are free of carbon collection. After cleaning off the points, the shell should be inspected for accumulations on the inside. A scraper for cleaning the carbon from the inside of the shell is made from one blade of an old pair of scissors. If the edge is sharpened on a grinding wheel the carbon will cut out easily.

REMOVE TAR SPOTS

Vaseline, if given reasonable time, will soften tar spots. When these have been softened, wash away the grease spots with a mild soap, and make sure all soapy water is rinsed off before it dries, otherwise it will leave spots.

COMMENT That's All

What Does Glendale Need? First Effort at Big Hotel Boys' Week Being Observed Beautification of Highways

By Gil A. Cowan

Comparisons sometimes are odious, but Glendale sizes up very high with other southland cities, surpassing all in its 100 per cent American citizenship; equaling any in scenic investiture and beautiful homes, schools and churches; and falling behind only a few in matters of business, building and hotel accommodations.

The writer has traveled over this southland, as well as the other sections of California and the nation at large. He knows that good hotel accommodations are necessary if the wealthier class of people are to be lured from the neighboring cities.

Pasadena and Los Angeles have no more claim than Glendale except that they have the facilities for caring for people.

Glendale needs a big hotel.

Wrecking of the Glendale sanitarium's old quarters calls to the mind of old timers the first effort of this city to establish a large tourist hotel here.

Would that there were people with courage of those who built the great wooden structure which now is giving way to progress.

This is Boys' Week. Yes, the boys are being honored in many ways and they should realize the friendly spirit which elders extend to them. But if we were in the girls' shoes we might arise to inquire why some of these paternal clubs cannot interest themselves in the girls also.

Beautification of the roads and highways of the southland is the greatest accomplishment one can suggest, particularly in the spring of the year, when the blooms are at their best in fields cultivated by private gardeners.

Parties residing along Los Feliz road in the Hollywood foothills have set an example by planting the parking in front of their property to yellow flowers which reflect the sunshine of the skies and trim the greenery in a most delightful manner.

During exposition year, a decade ago, there was a concerted effort to plant rose bushes along the highways. It was wonderful, but the rose was not hardy enough to go without care and roadside flower gardens are subject to neglect. Nevertheless, they are the final touch of beauty to be added to the scenic effect of our foothill roads.

It is a matter of individual effort to add living color to the general scheme of things. Of course, each home owner will have a garden, but why not devote a little time to the roadside parking?

Loss through deterioration in harvesters, tractors or other farm machinery left to the weather is nearly $370,000,000 a year.

Correct Length for Plug Gaps Is Shown

The correct length of plug gaps is as follows: High compression, 75-80-pound, .020-inch; medium compression, 65-pound, .025-inch; low compression, 55-pound, .030-inch.

A bluewinged teal duck was captured and identified near Toronto and was again caught on the Island of Trinidad, 3,000 miles from the Canadian city, only 60 days afterward.

Watch for Change in Engine's Running Note

Make a habit of listening carefully for any change in the noise the engine makes while running. Any tap or squeak means a loose part or lack of lubrication. If neglected serious results may follow.

FROM WORN GEARS

A grinding or humming noise in the differential is the result of worn gears.

Flush Water System To Remove Sediment

Keep the radiator clean. Flush the water circulating system to remove any rust or sediment deposits, as these tend to heat the motor.

Two Reasons for Light Six Studebaker Superiority

The motor is perfectly balanced. That means long life and freedom from vibration.

They use more Timken bearings in this car than are used in any competitive car within $1,500 of our price. And Timken bearings take up wear as no other bearings do.

Why This Price?

The Light-Six Touring Car is priced at $1260. Built under ordinary conditions such a car would cost you from $200 to $400 more.

But Studebaker builds 150,000 cars per year. They make their own parts. They build their own bodies in $10,000,000 body plants. They have 12,500 up-to-date machines. Their major costs are divided by enormous output.

The result is a value no other maker even tries to match in a fine car of this size. Come see what it means to you.

CONTRASTS AUTO WITH MISSIONS

Chrysler Car Visits Aged Spiritual Centers in Travelogue Today

headed the Chrysler car in the general direction of what is commonly known as the "high" road. This route takes the traveler through the towns of Sunland, Tujunga, La Crescenta and La Canada to Pasadena. The high road affords some unusual scenery and the road is exceptionally good.

While passing through Pasadena the members of the travelogue party had the opportunity to contrast the clusters of small houses found in the valley towns of Tujunga, La Crescenta and Sunland, with the millonaires' mansions in the Crown City. As one recalls the many changes that have been made since the days of the missions, it is easy to wonder how many years will pass before these towns are marked only by imaginary boundaries, and all Southern California will be built up.

San Gabriel Mission
The San Gabriel boulevard is followed until within a few blocks of the mission, which is reached by turning to the right one block. As the car turned the corner the San Gabriel loomed ahead, a monument to the faithful work of its founders.

This mission was the fourth mission established by Father Serra, beloved padre of California's early days. Its history dates from 1771, when the mission was founded. The church and one of the auxiliary buildings still stand, and services are held regularly in the church. Within the sanctuary some of the most interesting relics of the church are to be found of bygone days, while the San Gabriel bells are world famous.

Although seeming but a step removed from the busy life of today, one sees all about the traces of quaint Indian and Mexican settlements, and now and then a charming senorita or a flashing "don" walks down the street looking like a character which has stepped from a mouldy history book. Playing about are the "ninos" who indulge in century old games, while portly squaws crouch to dark-hued papooses carried in the ancient way.

Reluctantly leaving San Gabriel mission and its hosts of romantic and historic memories, the travelogue party continued their journey, following the El Monte road to Main street and Sunset boulevard, where the Los Angeles mission stands opposite the Plaza.

The advancement of commercial life has almost engulfed this mission, which was founded in 1781, and only the front of the aged structure greets the traveler on the street. Business houses hem in the building on all sides, and even the life of the little courtyard that once reposed between the two wings has been snuffed out by the dollar demand of the business world.

The city takes its name from this old church, and the Franciscan monks, after founding the mission, called the little settlement that sprang up "La Ciudad de Nuestra Senora la Reina de los Angeles," which means "The City of Our Lady the Queen of the Angels."

This mission is used regularly as a place of service, and but for the new appointments in the church, it remains as it was in the days when "caballeros" and "senoritas" knelt on the well-beaten adobe floor. Here will be

QUARTER MILLION MILES TRAVELED

Buick of 1909 Vintage Is Proud Possession of Kansas Dealer

One of the most remarkable records ever submitted to any Buick dealer has been brought to the attention of the local distributors, Tanner & Hall, Ltd., South Brand boulevard at Maple avenue, dealing with the experiences of F. E. Slason, formerly of Plainville, Kansas, but now of Pasadena.

Mr. Slason owns a car that was built in 1909, and he and his family have driven it 261,000 miles. Most people would send a car like that to the junkheap, after rolling up more than a quarter of a million miles, but Mr. Slason, who is known as the high priest of "Show Me" advertising, says that he has made it pay him thousands of dollars in his profession.

The car has been used for years as a trouble car, for trucking and hauling, and for livery service, being piloted about Kansas by twenty-five drivers and by members of Mr. Slason's family. In that time it has worn out more than 300 tires and has made trips over any and every kind of road, in every kind of weather.

Mr. Slason started life as a clothing merchant but he turned to automobiles, and then he kept the store going for a few years to help him pay his way, and then he branched out into motor cars and has been at it ever since, but the veteran Buick holds a place in his affections, a well worn place, that no other car can ever take.

Don't Try to Steer Car Standing Still

Never turn the steering wheel while the car is standing still, as such a turn puts unnecessary strain on all steering gear parts—and is bad for tires.

found an interesting collection of relics, which are shown by the caretakers.

History does not explain why the style of architecture followed in the erection of the Los Angeles mission does not follow the lines of the architecture found in other mission buildings in California. The building is not to be compared with some of the other missions.

The trip from the Los Angeles mission to Glendale was made over Glendale boulevard and Brand boulevard, a route so well known that further description is unnecessary.

Riding Is a Pleasure
Riding in the Chrysler Six phaeton used on the trip proved to be an unusual pleasure, as the deep upholstery, coupled with the sturdy springs eliminated all possibility of a tired feeling at the end of the jaunt.

Hills encountered on the route offered not the least resistance to the powerful motor which has made the Chrysler car famous in the few months it has been on the market. The car was constantly under control coming down all hills, and any emergency stop necessary was made without any side-sway motion, due to the four-wheel hydraulic feature.

Everywhere along the route passing motorists turned to look back at the elegant lines of the phaeton, and at all stops the car was the center of attraction for admiring persons.

VETERAN CAR IN PLACE OF HONOR

Studebaker Record Holder Is Housed in Museum in South Bend, Ind.

The famous Studebaker Light Six, which holds Pacific coast records in fast mail carrying service, has arrived in South Bend, Ind., and has been placed in honorable retirement.

The veteran machine, still full of pep and power despite its gruelling service, was moved into a prominent place in the Studebaker museum, where many celebrated cars and vehicles with a romantically history are viewed each year by thousands of visitors.

Holds Many Records
"Driven by Hart L. Weaver and James F. Gurley of the Chester N. Weaver company, and accompanied by observers, this car made road records between Los Angeles and San Francisco more than three years ago that have stood unequalled by the officially observed performance of any other car," says Stephen C. Packer of the Packer Auto company, 245 South Brand boulevard, local dealer.

On February 2, 1921, it established a new round-trip record between San Francisco and Los Angeles, a distance of 844.8 miles, in the sensational time of 21 hours 23 minutes. On the same trip it lowered the coast route record between these two cities by 2 hours 35 minutes 20 seconds, the time being 10 hours 12 minutes 30 seconds for the 453.7 miles.

Three weeks later this remarkable car smashed the valley route record between the Main postoffice at Los Angeles and Ferry postoffice, San Francisco, running the distance of 411.1 miles in 9

USE FORD PARTS TO BUILD HORSE

Versatility of Popular Car Shown by Products of Local Salesman

Folks everywhere joke about the versatility, or otherwise, of the Ford, but it is surprising what can be done with a handful of Ford parts when some one with a definite plan in his mind starts to assemble them.

Down in Jesse E. Smith's Ford agency on West Colorado, Clair R. d'Arge, the sales manager, has assembled a lot of Ford parts into speaking likenesses of Barney Google and his two running mates, Spark Plug and Rudy, the ostrich, and he is fiddling around the parts department now to try and build up something that will pass for the owner of Hoot Mon, the Scotch horse that Google's entry is to race shortly.

The question of a kilt that will have some semblance to a highland tartan has stumped him so far, but he refuses to despair, for, as he says, "If you just hunt around long enough you can get a Ford part that will look like anything on earth."

Another exhibit that he has built is an airplane that will do everything asked of it but fly. hours 15 minutes 50 seconds. It is believed that this time between these two points over this route will stand forever.

A month after these phenomenal runs, this light six covered the 425 miles of narrow desert trail from Los Angeles to Phoenix in 13 hours 16 minutes, cutting off 2 hours 28 minutes from the best previous automobile record. The railroad time is 1 hour 4 minutes slower than the record established by this light six.

At a meeting of the board of directors held in New York on Tuesday, he was elected a vice president. All the present officers of General Motors Corporation were re-elected.

Mr. Knudsen, formerly vice-president in charge of operations of Chevrolet Motor Company, was appointed general manager in January of this year and later elected president. He is well

DEMAND GROWING FOR CLOSED CAR

Driver Can Regulate Flow of Fresh Air to Suit His Convenience

One of the conspicuous developments of the automobile industry is the increase in the number of enclosed cars manufactured. This is because the enclosed models are now regarded by the public as all-season vehicles rather than simply winter cars, according to Porter Kelley of the Kelley Motor company, Hudson-Essex distributor, 318 South Brand boulevard.

"The man who wants fresh air and plenty of it," he said, "can actually get a better supply of it in an enclosed car than he can in an open one. By regulating the windows he can admit as much air as he wants. By opening certain windows and leaving others closed, or by opening each of them just a trifle he can get this supply of fresh air without any draft."

"In other words, an enclosed car is really an enclose-able car. It is more versatile than the open car, which can only be enclosed imperfectly at best and which rarely, if ever, gives just exactly the amount of fresh air desired. The enclosed car has become the acknowledged all-season car."

Hudson-Essex invented the coach, the first enclosed car ever to sell at a moderate price. "The Hudson-Essex organization felt that every motorist preferred an enclosed car, if he could have it without an undue expense over the cost of an open one. So the coach was brought out at practically an open car price."

known in the automotive world, having been engaged in the manufacturing branch of the industry since 1905.

4-WHEEL BRAKE TESTS ARE TOLD

Oakland Adopts Perrot Type Because of Simplicity and Reliability

Before adopting the mechanical type of four-wheel brakes the General Motors company spent months of time and thousands of dollars in exhaustive tests and research work according to Thos. E. Ricketts, Glendale Oakland dealer, 420 East Colorado street, and the result of the tests decided them in favor of the mechanical type.

"Simplicity was the deciding factor in the matter of four wheel brakes says Mr. Ricketts, 'as far as the General Motors laboratories were concerned and the mechanical brake is the personification of simplicity."

"The Perrot system, developed on the continent in Europe and used by 48 out of the 79 cars exhibited at the Paris Salon, has been adopted for use by General Motors and is employed on the Oakland six. This system has only 246 parts as compared with 574 parts employed by the simplest of other than mechanical types."

"Adjustment is a simple matter with the Perrot system. Wing-nuts, easily reached at the rear and at the front, permit of hand adjustment and this is accomplished in such a way that the merest novice finds no difficulty in getting the correct adjustment."

"The Oakland True Blue Traveller, which has run many more than 10,000 miles under the most adverse conditions, is still functioning with perfect efficiency on all four brakes. This in itself is sufficient evidence of the dependability of this type of brake."

BRAKE TROUBLE

Examine the brakes. Determine that they are free and do not drag with lever and pedal released, and that they hold with pressure even when pedal is depressed or lever drawn back. Brakes should be so adjusted that the car can be brought to a stop without grabbing.

NASH FINANCIAL STANDING SHOWN

Figures Show Millions In Cash and Equipment at Firm's Disposal

Reports recently issued by the Nash Motor Car company show that the firm has assumed a position in the automotive industry that stamps it as one of the concerns that are among the soundest, financially, to be found in the country, according to copies of the statement sent to Adolph Nydegger, president of the Nash Sales company, 1234 South Brand boulevard, by the Nash executives.

With a cash reserve running into millions, with assets in the way of equipment, buildings and stocks that total still more millions, and with prospects for business from every section of the country and from foreign countries, the Nash organization looks forward to a continued era of prosperity unequalled in its past history.

In the few brief years that have passed since Charles W. Nash began making cars under his own name, says Mr. Nydegger, "the products of the Nash plants have made their way into the popularity of the motoring public in a way that has seldom been equalled by any other car, and the reason for this popularity has been the real, honest-to-goodness merit that has been built into every Nash car from bumper to bumper. That counts with the man who has to depend on his car day in and day out. Another factor that has helped to place Nash so firmly in the good opinion of the public is that the firm has been conservative in its manufacturing policy, never putting out new styles just for the sake of introducing something new, but testing out every improvement before placing it on the market, and so preventing the cars that it had already placed in buyers' hands from becoming obsolete in appearance within a few months."

Consider This Sedan at $1445

THIS Oakland Six Sedan incorporates more advanced construction than you will find in any other Sedan selling at a similar price. You can verify these facts for yourself.

Oakland's new six-cylinder engine is compact and powerful. Its advanced design gives it the smoothness so desirable in a closed car.

Oakland's four-wheel brakes are sound. In the Sedan, a family car, don't overlook this safety feature.

The body is Fisher-built—beautiful and complete. Comparisons will increase your desire for it.

Oakland's new Duco finish is a revelation. In no other car, similarly priced, can you obtain this finish.

The control system is exclusive. Horns, throttle, ignition switch, choke and light controls—all are on the steering wheel.

Disc steel wheels are standard. They are safer, better looking, more desirable.

These are the facts and the Sedan price is $1445 at factory. To insure complete satisfaction you don't need to pay more. Consider the Oakland Sedan, drive it—and then decide for yourself.

It Gives You More for Your Money The Nash Six Touring

That's a simple statement of fact. The proof is built right into the car.

Where a four-bow top is customary Nash gives five bows. This top lasts longer and looks better. The door handles, locks, and screws are heavily nicked over brass. They cannot rust. That's a feature hitherto found only in high-priced cars. All metal used in the body is 19 and 20 gauge steel.

The stalwartly constructed body frame is made of choice hardwood. Each piece is seasoned and dried and treated in Nash kilns by experts. Nash devotes 17 days to painting the body. There are 16 coats and 24 operations in all. Now you know why it has a more lustrous, longer-lasting finish.

Every single feature of the car shows equally clear evidence that this Nash Six Touring is a better car and a finer investment.

SURVEY OF PARK SITUATION URGED

Recreation Facilities to Be

Investigation

er provision for the correct use of leisure time by its young people."

Minimizes Crime

Mr. Braden presented statistics showing the effect that the lack of playgrounds has on the morals of the young people of the community. He stated that 72 percent of the crime committed in the United States is now traced to boys and girls under 21 years of age. He made the assertion that in cities where adequate recreational facilities were included in the municipal program it was evident that the crime rate among the young people was much lower. To combat the argument that a municipal program that provided for the purchase of playgrounds and parks would raise taxes almost to a point where they could not be endured, he stated that it had been proven that in the long run a definite scheme of playground construction had in the end reduced taxes by eliminating largely the expense of dealing with juvenile delinquency.

Warmly Endorsed

After Mr. Braden's address, L. T. Rowley, chairman of the park board, presiding, called on several of those present for remarks on the question. P. J. Hayselden, secretary of the Planning commission; V. B. Stone, city manager; S. S. Gilhuly, member of the City Council; R. E. Johnston, president of the Exchange club; Richardson D. White, superintendent of the city schools; E. F. Sanders, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and D. J. Hibben, of the

Local Quintet Enters Meet

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, JR.
Of The Evening News Staff.
The Glendale High tennis squad, which is always seeking new fields to conquer, has entered the Pasadena Municipal tennis tournament to be held Saturday and Sunday with the prospect of cleaning up in at least one event. The matches will be played at Brookside park.

Laird, Maxwell, White, Osborne and Hardey have entered in the Junior singles. Laird and Maxwell, and Osborne and White are the two teams in the men's doubles.

school board responded. All endorsed the proposition as outlined by Mr. Braden, very strongly.

Co-operation Urged

It was suggested by Mr. White, and the survey will probably be made along these lines, that on account of prohibitive price of real estate in the city for park purposes, a community school-park-playground idea be investigated. On account of the rapid growth of the city, there is not much acreage available for parks or playgrounds within the corporate limits at the present time, and if some means could be found whereby the different organizations could work together and thereby eliminate waste and duplication of energy and money, this plan would be the most feasible, according to the expressed sentiments of the speakers.

All present declared they realized that the need for more playgrounds for the kiddies was very urgent, and the survey committee will be requested to get to work at once.

A Far Greater Car Than Its Price Indicates

Judge the Maxwell by the standards you associate with a much higher price, and even then the good Maxwell will lead by a wide margin.

Everything in it is good and true—fine chrome nickel steel is used in as many places in the good Maxwell as in cars selling at nearly twice as much.

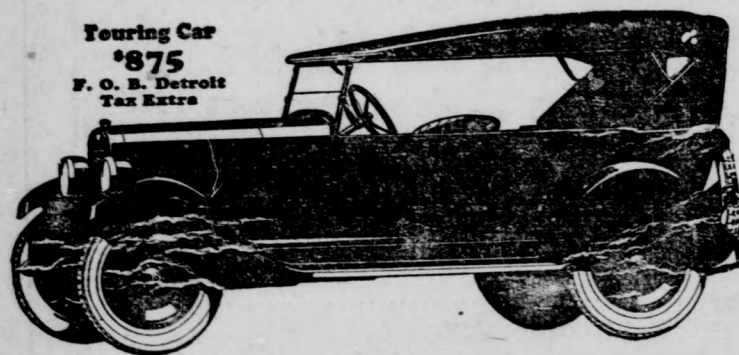

All the efforts of a great and powerful organization are directed towards making it the best buy in the world at anywhere near its price.

We will demonstrate gladly—for riding comfort and ease of handling make the car itself its own best spokesman.

bles which they had to enter on account of there being no junior doubles. Had the junior doubles event been in the tournament Laird and Maxwell would have walked off with the title. In the men's doubles they will find stiff going and will be lucky if they reach the semi-finals. It is expected that Allen and Godshall will take this event. In the junior singles both Laird and Maxwell should finish near the top, but will find plenty of competition in such Pasadena men as Robinson and Herman.

PRIZES AWARDED TO STUDENTS IN UNIQUE CONTEST

Manual Training Pupils Make
Variety of Striking
Homes for Birds

A contest in manual training work, the first of the kind to be tried out in the Glendale schools and one quite unique in character, has just been brought to a successful conclusion at Glendale avenue school under the direction of James G. Baillie, of the manual training department.

He announced several weeks ago that he wished to enlist pupils for entry in a contest in building of bird boxes, all boys in the school being eligible to enter the lists. The work was to be done at home, and had to be planned and executed entirely without supervision from any one in the school.

Had Two Objects
The primary object of the contest was to get the shop work into the home, and the second to arouse interest among the boys in the study of the lives and habits of the birds.

Eighty boys promptly entered to compete for the ribbons that were given by the Student Body association. Superintendent R. D. White, Principal Norman Whytock of Glendale avenue school, and Walter F. Hansen, supervisor of manual training, officiated as judges Tuesday afternoon when the contest closed. The ribbons were awarded as follows:

Winners in A-8-class were Charles Wenstrom, A-2-4, first; Paul King, A-8-4, second; Gilbert Whitney, A-8-3, third.
B-8-class—Kenneth Carson, B-8-1, first; Harry Doi, B-8-2, second; George Moore, B-8-2, third.
A-7-class—Robert Austin, A-7-1, first; Charles Hirt, A-7-1, second; Sam Mervis, A-7-3, third.
B-7-class—William Hofman, B-7-2, first; Paul Murray, B-7-2, second; Kenneth Warren, B-7-2, third.

Wins Special Prize
The house built by Robert Austin was also awarded the special prize as the best in all classes, and the prize was given by a well known lecturer on birds, who had become interested in the outcome of the movement.

It would be a most fastidious bird that could not find a home that was exactly suited to its individual taste in this truly remarkable collection of bird boxes that has been on display as a result of this contest. Materials of a great variety, from pieces of soap boxes, and good pine lumber, palm leaves, willow branches, tree knots and limbs to gravel roofs, on tiny bungalows, were used. Every one was deserving of a special mention.

A replica of a "log cabin" from the south, made by Chas. Wenstrom, was awarded a first prize; a wonderful five story Japanese temple, by Harry Doi, a second. A section of a round limb, had a cavity made by hand, and a tiny entrance, intended as a home for the smallest of birds; this was the contribution of Gerald Barreto, who came from South America, the home of the humming bird.

Duplex for Birds
A "martin duplex" looked ready for occupancy and a tiny cabin home was fitted with aerial wires ready for a radio. Points considered in deciding the winners included the originality of design, the workmanship from manual training standpoint, and the suitability of the finished article as a home for a bird.

Mr. Baillie states that he directed similar contests during the years of his teaching in the schools of Yakima, Wash., and they proved extremely successful in stimulating the interest of the youngsters in the study of the native birds.

He is now formulating plans for a kite contest to be carried out upon similar lines.

that I have set before me ever since I came to Glendale, to be established on the main boulevard in the city, and I feel that the success that the Dixie Motor Company has attained during the past year will be more than duplicated in the present year, especially as the demand for Packards is showing such a steady growth all over the country.

Among the flowers that decorate the showrooms are many from other automobile concerns in Glendale, who have expressed their pleasure in seeing the opening of an establishment such as this on South Brand boulevard.

Artist Will Tell of His Desert Sojourn
F. Grayson Sayre of 914 South Central avenue, Glendale artist, who returned recently with John W. Cotton, another local artist, from a sojourn on the desert, is to speak Sunday afternoon at a meeting of the Glendale Art association at the Public Library.

"The Desert" is to be his subject, and Mrs. Roy Ballagh, president, invites all Glendaleans to attend the meeting beginning at 4 o'clock.
Frank Geritz, wood block printer, of Los Angeles, will also speak, giving an illustrated talk on "The Famous, Infamous and Unfamous."
The board of the association is to meet Saturday night at the library to plan for a garden fete. The jury will also judge and hang the work of the intermediate schools.

FATHER APPEALS TO CITY COUNCIL

Ask Protection for School
Children; Son Injured
By Truck Monday

W. H. Schellbach of 422 West Palmer avenue, whose 8-year-old son, Billy, was injured Monday morning by a truck while on his way to the Magnolia street school, has voiced again his plea for traffic stops in front of Glendale schools, published Tuesday in The Glendale Evening News.

This time Mr. Schellbach makes his plea to the City Council in the following letter:

"I am appealing to you as a father and property owner of Glendale to do something for the protection of our young citizens on their way to school. On Monday, April 29, my little boy, age 8, was knocked down while crossing San Fernando road at West Palmer, a thoroughfare that is crowded with machines all hours of the day. Three ribs were cracked and the child hurt internally. The driver of the machine was not at fault, as the boy ran behind the machine and was caught with the back fender. If he had not crawled to the sidewalk he would have been hit again by following machines. The driver said he did not know that a school was in the neighborhood and did not see any slow sign. A school stop sign would have avoided all that.

"Are we so wrapped up in the growth of our city that we neglect our dearest possession, our children? Los Angeles has had the school stop long enough to prove its value. Let us, at least, be a close second. Since the road officer is no longer allowed to sit in his nest, all respect of speed seems to be forgotten. A school stop will not make anyone late and it might save a life.

"Hoping that there are fathers among you who will feel as I do about it, I beg to remain."

Attorney Fricke to 'Address Boys' Meet

Charles W. Fricke, chief deputy district attorney, is to be speaker Friday night at the "Boys' Night" at the Tropic Presbyterian church, at South Central avenue and Laurel street.

The meeting, which will be held under the auspices of the men's club, will begin at 8 o'clock.

France uses daylight saving time.

White Rose With Diameter of Six Inches, Grown Here

Glendale, "the fastest growing city in America," known for its comfortable homes and beautiful flower gardens, can boast of producing a white rose which measures six inches in diameter.

This rose is growing on a bush which a year and a half ago was merely a clipping planted by Rev. J. N. Marsh of 235 North Cedar street, in his flower garden. ## GLENDALE SINGER SCORES TRIUMPH

Miss Elizabeth Mottern In Senior Recital Last Night at School

Miss Elizabeth Mottern, young Glendale singer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Mottern of 211 North Adams street, was accorded most deserving compliments last night when she appeared in the "Touchstone theatre" at the University of Southern California for her senior recital in the College of Music, in which she has studied with Miss Lillian Backstrand.

Sharing honors with her were Marjorie Jean Bailey, talented Glendale harpist, and Miss Mary Taylor, pianist, of Hollywood. Miss Mottern was most becomingly gowned in Nile green Canton crepe, heavily beaded, made with long lines. Miss Bailey and Miss Taylor wore blue gowns. The young women ushers were each dressed in light spring colors.

To Study in East
Upon her graduation in June, Miss Mottern is to spend the summer in Chicago, studying with Percy Rector Stevens. She was recently made beneficiary of the Glendale Music club and her summer study is made possible through the aid of this organization. She has not yet made her plans for the fall and winter months.

There were many Glendale friends of the Mottern family at the recital last night and they joined with Miss Mottern and her parents in the happiness over the many compliments received.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY GOES SHOPPING

"Are you going to do anything special today, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one morning.

"No, nothing special," answered the bunny rabbit gentleman. "All I want is an adventure."

"Then come shopping with me and perhaps you'll have a funny one," laughed Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"What? Come shopping? You mean go in the eight and nine cent store and walk over two aisles and up one pair of stairs and down another pair of stairs and have the little mouse girl clerks laughing at my pink twinkling nose?" cried Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, no!" teased Nurse Jane, as she patted the bunny's whiskers. "Please come. I am going to get me a new May bonnet and I would like to see how you like it before I pay for it. Please come shopping with me!"

"Oh, dear!" sighed Uncle Wiggily.

"How do you like that?" she asked.

He didn't want to go, but, being kind hearted and hating to say he wouldn't, at last he agreed. "But you're only going to buy a bonnet!" he said to his muskrat lady housekeeper. "No shopping for spoils of thread, needles, pins, lace, ribbons and matching silk."

"No, nothing like that," promised Nurse Jane. "I'm only going to buy a new May bonnet and I want you to help me shop for it."

Uncle Wiggily tried to wave his short, little tail, and he took a long breath.

"I would rather have the Fox chase me than go shopping," he said to himself. But Nurse Jane is kind to me, so I must be kind to her."

Down town to the eight and nine cent store hopped the bunny with Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"It will take only a few minutes for me to buy the bonnet," she explained, "then you may go adventuring."

Though the mouse girl clerks looked rather oddly at the bunny, making his pink nose get pinker than ever, no one said anything to him. But Nurse Jane is kind to me, so I must be kind to her."

"How do you like that?" she asked of Uncle Wiggily.

"It's beautiful! Just suits you!" cried Mr. Longears.

"Oh, it isn't what I want at all!" squeaked Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "You aren't thinking what you're saying. You know yellow buttercups always make me look old. Here, I'll try this one with pink roses!"

She put on that bonnet and asked Uncle Wiggily how she looked.

"It's wonderful!" he said. "It's just your style!"

"But don't you think it is rather old fashioned?" asked the muskrat lady of the mouse girl clerk.

"Yes, it is," was the answer. "Here is something much smarter with black whitewash on it."

"There, Uncle Wiggily! You really weren't thinking of what you were saying when you told me the pink rose bonnet was what I wanted. How is this?" asked Nurse Jane, trying on the one with black whitewash sprinkled on the top.

"That's just right!" cried Uncle Wiggily, who was in a hurry to get out of the store. "It's so different, don't you know?"

"Wiggy! How could you think of letting me wear this?" asked Nurse Jane as she looked in the glass. "It's much too sad looking isn't it?" she asked the mouse clerk.

"Oh, yes, much!" was the answer. "Much too sad. Try this one. It has green watercress trimming."

"That will be just what you want," said Uncle Wiggily. "And when you get hungry you can eat the watercress."

"Wiggy! Uncle Wiggily! The came to America in 1923 to lecture at the General Theological Seminary in New York, in addition to enjoying the warm friendship of Prime Minister James Ramsay MacDonald, stands in especially high favor with both King George and Queen Mary. Renowned as a particularly live wire of the State Church of England, he is a favorite son of that wonderful primate, who was the ninety-fifth Archbishop of Canterbury since St. Augustine's wander from A. D. 597 to 605.

The Bishop of Manchester and prospective Primate spent several years as headmaster of Ripon. He is only a little over 40 years of age and in view of the fact that he has already been a chaplain of the King, a canon of the chapter of Westminster Abbey, a lecturer on philosophy at the

Wants $1000 Per Bruise

MRS. MARY VON BORRIES claims her beauty specialist husband put the reverse English on his treatment of her. She asks $75,000 for 75 black marks she plans to exhibit.

CHICAGO, May 1.—In his profession as plastic surgeon, Dr. Von Borries specializes in improving the beauty of women, but in his off hours, his wife, Mrs. Mary Von Borries, charges, he devotes himself to spoiling hers. She is suing for divorce.

One of his particular delights, she recounts in her petition, is biting her.

She bears so many bruises, she says, that she contemplates suing him at the rate of $1,000 a bruise, and will, she avows, exhibit 75 bruises, for which she will ask $75,000.

Mrs. Von Borries is 19 and her husband is 50. He indignantly denies the charges.

At Local Theatres

THE GLENDALE

"Searmouche," which continues at the Glendale Theatre, is one of the greatest films ever made, critics agree. Rex Ingram, the producer, leaped into world fame when he created "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" for Metro. In this new Metro super-production, he has excelled even that great effort.

And, according to Manager William A. Howe of the Glendale Theatre, the people of this city appreciate such a stupendous production, judging from the way they have been patronizing his showhouse.

"Searmouche" has much to offer besides mere magnificence. It is first of all a really inspiring drama, written by Rafael Sabatini, one of the foremost fictionists in the English speaking world. Then consider the cast, which includes the trio, Alice Terry (the producer's wife), Ramon Navarro and Lewis Stone. From all angles, the picture excels.

University of Oxford and now Bishop of Manchester, no one in England is surprised to find him as the most popular and virtually assured candidate for the Primacy.

Dr. Temple has been pronounced as the finest elocutionist of the Church of England.

The Bishop, who is married to Frances Anson, is on his father's side descended in a direct line from that Lady Godiva who is so celebrated in connection with her extremely decollete ride through the streets of Coventry. He is a first cousin of the now widowed Ambassador Lady Spring Rice, his mother, who died in 1914, having been a sister of Sir Frank

THE GATEWAY

"The Eternal City," a George Fitzmaurice production of the immortal Sir Hall Caine novel, opens at the Gateway Theatre to-day, with a cast including Lionel Barrymore, Bert Lytell, Montague Love and Barbara La Marr. It is a First National attraction, presented by Samuel Goldwyn.

And the settings! They are nothing less than poetical rhapsodies. Sir Hall Caine laid the story in Rome—and there is where the picture was filmed. You will be regaled with pictorial backgrounds such as you have never seen before on the screen. The massive Coliseum, where the pomp and glory of ancient Rome was displayed; the Roman baths and many other historical vistas of beauty are to be seen.

Amid such picturesque settings moves this gripping story of a love that survived the crucible of bitterness and suspicion.

Lascelles, one time British ambassador at Berlin, and the father of Lady Spring Rice.

AH, THEN WHAT?

The stout woman struggled to enter a narrow carriage doorway on an English train, but struggled in vain.

"Urry on there!" yelled the guard, approaching her with fire in his eyes. "Urry on! Git in edgeways, mum! Git in edgeways."

The would-be traveler showed a red, perspiring face over her plump shoulder, and regarded the official with an angry glare. "An' wot," she snapped bitterly, ceasing her endeavors for the moment, "wot if I ain't got no edge?"

Daily News Letter

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad

By DAVID M. CHURCH, For International News Service.

LONDON, April 30.—Never judge an Englishman by his appearance.

This is a truth which it takes time to learn, but it is a truth.

The Right Honorable Leopold Charles Maurice Stennet Amery, ex-First Lord of the Admiralty, sounds like a formidable sort of a person, but the holder of this title is a diminutive little man, in fact his name is almost longer than he is. One wonders how so small a man can stand under the burden of so heavy a name. When Amery speaks another disappointment comes, for his is a high piping voice, with a distinct Oxonian accent, almost the accent that Englishmen use in America.

Then it is noticed that the Right Honorable Leopold wears his handkerchief up his sleeve. With all fairness, after giving him the up and down and basing your judgment on his appearance, you are inclined not to take him too seriously, and perhaps even a snicker may be afforded the irreverent.

It's all wrong, though. Like many Englishmen, you can't judge the Right Honorable Leopold Charles Maurice Stennet Amery by his appearance. He demonstrated this very emphatically in the House of Commons recently.

Amery had been engaged in chaffing the Laborites on a bill they were pushing with little or no success, when George Buchanan, of Glasgow, a lusty, pink-cheeked, strapping Scotchman, became angered and hurled a few epithets at Amery, among them being "guttersnipe" and "swine."

Buchanan crossed the floor of the House, and Amery looked up at this looming bulk and said: "Did you call me that?"

"I did!" replied Buchanan defiantly.

The tiny Right Honorable Leopold minced words no further, but swung back with a "straight right" and landed a haymaker on the jaw of Buchanan.

M. P.'s rushed in from all sides, and there was a lovely row well under way before interference put an end to the fracas, and the diminutive Mr. Amery was in the thick of the battle.

It took courage for the Right

Honorable Leopold to smite the husky Buchanan they have restrained the truth in that advice.

No. Never judge an Englishman by his appearance. The Right Honorable Leopold has demonstrated the truth in that advice.

The Amery-Buchanan muss is the first that has occurred in the House of Commons since the Labor Government came to power. Prior to gaining power, the Laborites frequently staged lively scenes and not a few mix-ups, but since they have taken over the robes of office they have restrained themselves remarkably well, particularly since they have been under a continuous and heavy fire of withering sarcastic comment from the Tory benches.

Ramsay MacDonald has issued warnings that Laborite tempers must be restrained no matter how much provocative heckling comes from the opposition, and the warning has been effective.

Members of the Labor Cabinet are showing the effects of their hard work. They appear in public tired and worn. The Prime Minister sets a terrific pace, and his colleagues have to keep up with him.

Elevation to office hasn't brought any false ideas into the minds of the Laborites.

"A few years ago I was an engine driver," J. H. Thomas, Colonial Secretary, recently told American correspondents. "I am not ashamed of it, but on the contrary I am proud of it, and I thank God that our Constitution is such that a man may rise from the daily work to the high offices given by the King. Ours is a complete democracy."

Ramsay MacDonald is most popular with the permanent employees of the Government, despite the fact that he has demanded more work than his predecessors have asked. He has a human way about him, however, which offsets his insistence upon application to work.

"How do you like the Foreign Secretary?" someone recently asked a high official of the Foreign Office.

"He's splendid," came the reply. "It's nice to be working for a gentleman again."

Dinner Stories

BAD, THEN WORSE

An old-time mariner tells of a minister who was a passenger on his steamship when a great storm overtook them off the coast.

"It looks pretty bad," said the divine.

"Couldn't be much worse, sir," replied the captain.

Half an hour later the vessel was diving under the waves as if she were a submarine, and leaking.

"Looks worse, I think, captain," said the clergyman.

"We must trust in Providence now, sir," said the captain.

"Oh, I hope it has not come to that!" gasped the divine.

Scuffling Feet

THE eager, restless feet of active youth — what wreckage they make of the ordinary painted floor! In Oakland and Berkeley, the public school floors — painted with BASS-HUETER Overnite Floor Enamel — successfully withstand this hard usage.

You doubtless have in your home certain floors, and sometimes linoleum, that must stand constant wear. For these surfaces you should use Overnite Floor Enamel. It is easily applied, dries over night, and heel marks will not mar its high gloss.

Complete instructions are on every can, and, when followed, will insure successful painting.

HI-Y PROGRAM AT STRICKLAND HOME

Celebrate Boys' Week With Entertainment; Body to Inspect Buildings

Glendale Hi-Y boys celebrated "boys' week" last night by motoring over to the Strickland home to entertain the boys there. There were thirteen automobiles in the caravan that left Glendale shortly after the dinner hour and returned late from the boys' home.

Entertainment was given by Irwin Grosse, who gave readings; Fred H. Roberts, who intrigued his audience with clever feats of magic, music by the Hi-Y orchestra.

Bountiful helpings of ice cream were served through the courtesy of the Glendale Ice Cream Company.

On Monday night the Glendale Hi-Y boys are to motor to Pasadena for a swim in the tank at the Y. M. C. A. building, where they will later hold their monthly banquet.

Inspect Buildings
The building committee of the local Y. M. C. A., including H. P. Arnold, chairman, C. W. Ingledue and J. S. Thompson, accompanied by the following members of the board, W. F. Tower, Dr. John Anderson and Rex C. Kelley, motored to San Diego and Santa Ana yesterday to inspect the program Monday night at the Glendale Presbyterian church at South Louise and East Harvard streets.

This quartet, it is reported, is soon to leave for London, where they will sing at a big convention.

rade which will start at 1 o'clock. The ballplayers of both teams, the tug-of-war athletes, and members of the various organizations, will participate in the parade, which will be staged in the business section.

The line-up of the Exchange club follows:

Campaign Program Is Being Pressed by Workers

The "clean-up" campaign of the $50,000 advertising fund drive will conclude tomorrow, it was decided this noon by Chairman M. Walters of the Chamber of Commerce ways and means committee. This terminates Offensive No. 1.

On other fronts, the campaign program continues as previously announced, and may be summarized as follows:

Offensive No. 2—Los Angeles campaign, in charge of F. P. Newhart, A. R. Eastman and Roy L. cent.

Offensive No. 3—"Heavy-weight" campaign, comprising a special big committee to urge those who should have contributed but have not yet done their share, to "come across."

Offensive No. 4—Kiwanis-Exchange club baseball game Saturday afternoon, at the White Sox baseball park.

Offensive No. 5—"Glendale 100,000 Club" campaign, opening Saturday with sale of buttons at $1 each.

Expect Good Sum
As the drive draws to a close, the Kiwanis-Exchange baseball game and the "Glendale 100,000 Club" button campaign, both scheduled for Saturday of this week, begin to loom big on the horizon, and it is expected that many thousands of dollars will be realized from these features.

"With our total to date nearing the $25,000 mark, and additional contributions continuing to pour in, particularly from out of town sources," says Mr. Walters, "it appears that the drive should easily reach the $50,000 objective if everyone puts his shoulder to the wheel for the next two days."

"There is a supreme opportunity for everyone who wants a greater share in the city's betterment — to contribute to a fund being raised for the express purpose of telling people in general why Glendale is the ideal Southern California city."

SEWER BOND SALE IS CALLED OFF

Cancellation of Purchase Is Made Necessary by Irregularities

1924 sewer bonds of the city of Glendale by the "Anglo London Paris company," "Hunter, Dulin & company," "M. H. Lewis & company," "First Securities company," and "Freeman, Smith & Camp, company."

and the city clerk is hereby instructed to return the cashier's check in the sum of ten thousand dollars to said purchasers.

"Be it further resolved:

"That by and with the consent of said purchasers of said bonds, the award of said bonds is hereby cancelled and rescinded.

"Adopted and approved this 1st day of May, 1924."

City Attorney's View

In commenting on the resolution, Ray L. Morrow, said: "The firm of O'Melveny, Milliken, Tulley & MacNeil, recognized as being without a peer in giving expert opinions on bonds in America, were retained by the City Council as special counsel to assist me in the bond proceedings. The sale was approved by them, and each step in the proceedings had their official sanction."

"In our hurry to get the bonds on the market and start the actual construction with the least possible delay, we anticipated their approval, which was later given, and agreed to give this approval opinion to the purchasers. In fact, the sale was made subject to such an approval."

"After the sale was made, in checking over the contract between the cities of Los Angeles and Glendale, the Los Angeles firm discovered that certain technicalities which in their opinion should be included had been overlooked. These are very minor matters, but it takes time to put them through."

Makes Explanation

"The first is the adoption of a resolution by the City Council of both municipalities stating that the construction of the sewer is a public necessity, and the second is the granting of sewer rights of way on the Glendale streets to the city of Los Angeles. In the contract permission was given the city of Los Angeles to use the streets for sewer purposes. Consulting counsel believe that it is general and state that it will be necessary for the council of Los Angeles to pass a resolution requesting the use of certain streets in Glendale for sewer purposes, and that after this is received by the council of Glendale, it will be necessary for that body to grant the city of Los Angeles permission to use certain streets."

"This is all that necessitated the cancellation of the sale. When these steps are taken we will be ready to offer the bonds to the public again. We are going to work on these things immediately and expect to have the necessary resolutions passed and in effect within sixty days."

Sees Nothing Wrong

In his opinion, said Mr. Morrow, there was absolutely nothing wrong with the bond issue. The question as to the objections raised by the Los Angeles attorneys might come up when the money was to be used, but until that time proceedings had been regular. The Anglo-London-Paris company, which sold half of the issue within twenty-four hours after the purchase, was in a very peculiar position, he stated, in not being able to make delivery within a reasonable time, to its clients.

For this reason the company asked the cancellation of the sale. "The cancellation of the sale, while it does delay us some, will have no material effect on the sewer," said Mayor Spencer Robinson this morning. "If the Los Angeles firm had demanded that we pass these two resolutions before the sale was made we could not have placed them on the market until June or July in any case. So we really lose no time by the cancellation."

The Anglo-London-Paris company (a trust) very anxious to get the Glendale sewer bonds and asked especially to be advised when they were offered for sale again.

Fumigation Exemption Is Asked by Travelers

RENO, May 1.—Commercial travelers have petitioned the Nevada quarantine authorities for exemption from fumigation when their routes do not include districts in California affected by the foot-and-mouth disease. The request is under consideration.

Quarantine officials are of the opinion that increased vigilance is necessary, because of removal of title cards from California and Nevada to the Sierra foothills.

Authorize Issue of Square Spanish Coins

CATE APPOINTED SCHOOL MANAGER

John T. Cate, appointed business manager of the City Board of Education Tuesday night, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of David J. Black, is taking up his new duties, and was at his desk for a long period yesterday.

Mr. Cate's training peculiarly fits him for the position, it is declared. He has had commercial training as an accountant and executive. For six years superintendent of construction of grammar schools for the Franklin Engineering company of Seattle; for three years transportation manager of the Lichtenberger-Ferguson company of Los Angeles and for two years sales manager of the Standard Laboratories of the same city, his experience has been wide and varied.

Mr. Cate, whose Glendale residence is 406 West Broadway, stated this morning that he did not intend for his time to be made any radical changes in the administration of the business department of the public schools.

"I have no statement of policy to make at this time," he said. "I am new at the job here, but I will take me some time to get broke in. I intend to give the people of Glendale an economical and efficient administration of the school affairs which come under my supervision." For some time past Mr. Cate has been in the real estate business.

HUBBY TIRES OF DODGING POKERS

Wife's Expensive Tastes and Bad Language Figure In Otto's Complaint

LOS ANGELES, May 1.—Helen Gray Otto's tastes were too expensive for the family purse, and her aim was too good for his health, Edward F. Otto, Hollywood insurance solicitor, declares in a divorce action filed today. Among the charges he includes in his complaint are the following:

Threw stove poker at him; scratched his face; pulled his hair; demanded too expensive dresses; used a choice selection of profanity; took the rent money and paid it as a deposit on a $500 fur coat; wouldn't iron his shirts, darn his socks or sew buttons on his trousers; told him she was attending spiritualistic meetings, but when he tried to find the "church" she had told him about, he failed to locate it. He refused to know if he isn't entitled to a divorce decree.

Home Owner Proposes to Tax Chanticleer $25 a
Year in Glendale

The suggestion that rooster owners be made to pay the city of Glendale a tax of $25 a year is made in a contribution addressed to the Rooster Editor of The Glendale Evening News by "Johnathan Kay," who goes on to say: "That is about the tax for peanut vendors—and they don't make near as much noise!" The letter, which contains a number of other meaty suggestions, reads:

"April 28, 1924.

"Rooster Editor,

"The Glendale Evening News.

"Dear Rooster Editor:

"What do you think about the hens joining in with their chorus work when the rooster finishes giving. 'It's getting morning,' especially these mornings when the sun rises at 5 o'clock. One of your letters said, 'Go to bed early.' Suppose you do and the cats congregate on the back fence about eleven and have an oratorical contest for several hours, with a refrain from the roosters about 3:30 in the morning, thundering Ford's leaving at 5:30 and roller-skating at 6? Besides, the people next door think the sweetest music on earth is not the roosters but the KJH—the Times, Los Angeles—which everyone will admit is wonderful, especially after supper. If the roosters wouldn't crow in the still of the morning, no one would complain; but it is when the majority of people try to sleep that this clear clarion voice sounds out which disturbs many people.

Near Sleeping Porch

"People who own their homes do not like to have chickens so close to them. How far should they be, Mr. Rooster Editor? In my neighborhood they are penned within eight feet of the sleeping porch. Two tenants moved because they said, 'Nice house, but that bird bellows out too loud for me.'

"If it is true that keeping a rooster's head at an equilibrium with the rest of his body by tying his head to his foot keeps him from crowing, then a patent should be obtained at once and presented free of charge to rooster owners by those who are disturbed, and for failure to apply said appliance, rooster owners to pay the city of Glendale a tax of $25 per year. That is about the tax for peanut vendors and they don't make near as much noise!

Yours truly,

"JOHNATHAN KAY."

What a wonderful opportunity for some amateur Al Jolson to furnish the Rooster Editor of The Glendale Evening News a witty come-back to "Johnathan Kay's" contribution! Don't all speak at once.

Here's Another
Now, then, take the medical side of the case. Here's a letter that will, no doubt, provide food for thought:

Glendale, April 28, 1924.

Dear Sir—You asked for further discussion of the "rooster" question. Would you like the opinion of an outsider?

I have a daughter who is a practicing physician in an eastern city, and has made a special study of nervous and mental diseases. From time to time I send her copies of your paper and lately received the following comment:

"Speaking of mental bias, some one ought to write for those people in Glendale who object to roosters that the trouble is in themselves. If they lived near a car track, a factory whistle, a church bell, any of them starting their noise in early morning they would hear them for two or three days and realize what they were and would after that sleep soundly. But a rooster belongs to a private citizen and the annoyed person hasn't a taste for keeping chickens, so allows himself to be irritated by it, and it becomes, later, really the irritation that wakes him when the rooster crows and not the crow itself.

For myself, I am never awakened by the roosters, and sometimes when I happened to be awake I have been amused by their frantic efforts to outdo each other.

On the other hand, I was considerably annoyed last summer by the singing of a mockingbird on the porch roof near my open window. It would awaken me at any hour of the night when it felt disposed to sing, and I could do nothing about it.

S. M. D.

P. S.—I do NOT keep chickens.

SCENIC BEAUTIES CHARM VISITORS

Arrow-Bear Park Forms Fine
Mountain Home Site,
Says L. A. Hart

Arrow-Bear park, the scenic wonderland of the San Bernardino mountains, is becoming more prominent as the summer vacation season approaches, according to L. A. Hart of the Hart Realty company, 205 West Broadway, local agents for this popular recreational park.

Much of the primitive life that characterized this beautiful mountain fastness as revealed to M. P. Carlock, president of the Arrow-Bear company, by William F. Rogers, known as "The Hermit Writer of the Sierras" a quarter of a century ago has vanished, but enough remains to charm the visitor and draw for him a picture of the mountain fastnesses where deer, bear, lions and other wild animals once roamed untroubled by the invading vacationers.

Ideal Home Site
No more ideal site for the mountain home is presented anywhere in the west, says Mr. Hart. Here the camping life that beckons to the city man who hungers for fishing, hunting, hiking, motorizing, horseback riding, boating and fishing may be enjoyed with the added conveniences of civilization.

The same scenic territory is there with all its grandeur, but the old mountain trail is gone. In its place is found a wonderful boulevard over a mile high—the famous "Rim of the World Drive," winding its way from San Bernardino to Big Bear Lake and back. This matchless highway above the clouds, passing through the very heart of the mountains is the key to Arrow-Bear Park.

Easy of Access
With modern roads and high powered autos it is but a three-hour drive from Glendale, and less than one hour from San Bernardino. Mr. Hart states that everything possible is being done to preserve the natural scenic wonders of the park. Engineers have

In expression of the deep regret and sorrow of the Glendale Music club, of which Mrs. Mattison B. Glendale, Cal., April 29, 1924.
In recognition of the splendid services of Mrs. Dora Gibson, as second vice-president of the Glendale Music club, as a director of the Junior club, as chairman of the Scholarship Loan Fund and Educational department, and as a loyal friend and a noble woman, the members of the executive board of the Glendale Music club desire at this time to express their deep regret and sorrow in the loss of one who at all times was ever ready to co-operate and assist in every worthy undertaking in order that music and citizenship should go hand-in-hand, and that high and noble purposes should ever be held aloft in the lives of all to whom music is an inspiration.

The members of the board further desire that a copy of these resolutions be sent to Mrs. Gibson's family and to each of the Glendale papers.

MRS. MATTISON B. JONES,
President.
MRS. FRANK A. ARNOLD,
Recording Secretary.

Many Glendale people are planning to make their homes in this playground far above the city noise, heat and traffic. Mr. Hart states he will gladly give full information and offer every assistance to those who long to rest or to play.
